SPORTS

Track teams split against WSU

By Ashley Conklin Emerald Sports Editor

The Oregon men's track team suffered its worst dualmeet loss ever Saturday when Washington State inflicted a 111-52 defeat on the Ducks.

"Tve said this before, that records are made to be broken," Oregon Coach Bill Dellinger said. "Hopefully this record isn't beaten for a long time."

One reason for Dellinger's optimism was that Oregon actually performed pretty well.

The Ducks' 4x100-meter relay team of Devon Hosey. Mike McClendon, Bob Gray and Ronnie Harris finished second to the Cougars but set a new school-record of 39.80, beating the 10-year-old record of 39.84.

"Our guys ran pretty well," Dellinger said. "The meet was closer than the score said. Washington State was behind in the relay and their world-class sprinter (Augustin Olobia) had to make up some yardage.

Oregon also got good performances from Scott McGee, who won the hammer with a personal record of 225-10. and Brian Wright, who clocked a season-best 50.87 in the 400-meter hurdles. It was a different story on the women's side, where Oregon posted an easy 79-57 win over Washington State. "We wanted to get the win with a minimal effort." Ore-

CALL FOR ENTRIES

PHOTOGRAPHY · CONTEST

gon Coach Tom Heinonen

said. Although the Ducks didn't load up, they had several good marks, especially from Lucy Nusrala and Lisa Karnopp, who went 1-2, respectively, in the 1,500 meters over the Cougars' Luiza DoNascimento.

The Ducks also had 1-2 finishes in the high jump and long jump and swept the top three spots in the 3,000 meters.

Oregon also got a PR and a win from Karen Wiedmann in the 400 hurdles, her firstever college victory.

Mt. SAC Relays — Oregon also had two athletes competing in the Mount San Anto-

Turn to TRACK, Page 9

Duck women golfers to host Pac-10 tourney

By Robert Weber Emerald Sports Reporter

Sunshine, short rough and rounds in the low 70s at courses all over California and Arizona are out. In are unpredictable spring weather, ankledeep rough and scores in the high 70s to low 80s at one of the Northwest's toughest golf courses.

The latter is a brief description of what is expected at the fifth annual Pacific-10 Conference women's golf championships, running today through Wednesday at the 5,900-yard Eugene Country Club.

"Eugene Country Club is an incredible course." Oregon Coach Renee Mack said. "It's in great shape. The rough's deep, the fairways are immaculate and the greens will be ready by Monday."

Typical Oregon spring weather combined with the course's deceptive length will cause scores to balloon. Mack said. And Mack should know what she's talking about — her squad has played the Eugene course twice a week since September.

"On paper it doesn't look long, but it is because you don't get a lot of roll here like you do in Arizona or California," Mack said. "Last year it took a team average of 73 or 74 to win, this year it will probably be around 78.

"People will be hitting long irons and woods into the par fours and the long rough will force them to chip out and then go for the green."

Three of the nation's top six teams will compete in the tournament, led by second-ranked Arizona, which has won six of its nine tournaments this season.

"UCLA and Arizona will come in and be very tough." Mack said. "Stanford will be right up there and after that a lot of teams will battle for fourth, fifth and sixth place."

Favorites for individual honors include Arizona State's Kim Millies, UCLA's Lisa Kiggens and a pair of Wildcats in Annika Sorestam and Metter Hageman.

UCLA collected its first conference title last year, charging from behind during the final round to overcome Arizona by one shot and Arizona State by two strokes at the Stanford Golf Course.

The Sun Devils' Brandie Burton captured medalist honors last year with a five-under par 214. Burton, the collegiate player of the year last season as a freshman, won't be back to defend her title as she is now playing on the LPGA circuit.

The Ducks' sixth-place performance in last year's tournament was the highest finish in Oregon history, yet Mack believes her team's strong play lately has put them in a position to improve on that mark.

"We are very ready." she said. "We had our best threeday total at ASU and have been playing very consistent."

Oregon's success may depend on whether junior Starla Yamada can continue her solid play. Yamada, who enters the championships with an 80.5 scoring average, is fresh off her first tournament win at the Oregon State Invitational.

April 22 - May 25

The UO Bookstore is sponsering a photo contest with this theme:

"THE BEST OF TIMES"

Show us the best times you have with your friends by photographing what you do when you are all together. Whether it is Spring Break or a night out on the town, we want to see what you do for fun!

Great Prizes will be offered, and your entry photos will be displayed in the store.

PRIZES

There will be exciting prizes awarded to four lucky winners: our People's Choice prize winner will be chosen by you the people!

First Prize

A JVC Compact Disc Player (Value $300)

Second Prize $200 in cash

Third Prize Olympus Infinity Twin offered. Camera (Value $180) os will

People's Choice

• Two entries per person

RULES

• All photos must have been taken since Mar. 1. 1990.

• No professional (a person whose principal living is made by taking pictures) may enter

 Size of photo (total print or matte size): Maximum: 11 x14

- Minimum: 5 x 7
- Color prints only

• Judging will be done by Qualex, Inc., the UO Journalism Dept., and local professionals outside of the UO Bookstore. The judges will not be aware of who submitted any entry.

The duration of the Photo Contest will be:

April 22 - May 25

• All photo entries must be received at the photo department of the UO Bookstore (near the back of the main floor) no later than May 25

• On the back of your entries you must print very clearly:

(1) Your name(2) Your address

(D) The title of

The winners will be personally notified, and their names posted in the lobby of the Bookstore, as well as announced in the Oregon Daily Emerald on May 31. 1991.

Have lots of fun with this and Good Luck!

Free processing for 52 rolls of film (enough for each week of the year).

UO BOOKSTORE

(3) The title of your print

(4) The type of camera lens and film used (if possible)

• "People's Choice" voting will take place within the store May 11 - 25

• Prints must be picked up by June 8, 1991.

A CONTRACT OF A

"Starla is playing great." Mack said. "Her short game has improved and that's why she's playing so well."

The tournament gets underway with Arizona State, USC and Washington State teeing off at 8:30 a.m. Admission is free.

Monday, April 22, 1991

Page 8