

Tar'd and Feathered and their "various borrowed and un-paid for" instruments will hit Main Stage Friday night.

Quartet performs jigs, reels 'n more

Pan pipes, mouth harp, pennywhistles, banjo, bodhran, river boat songs, Chilean laments and Andean ghosts. Four people, too many instruments, and a lot of music—it's Tar'd and Feathered.

This Chico, California quartet uses "various borrowed and un-paid for" acoustic instruments along with four-part vocal harmonies. "Stand-up bass...now, not a lot of groups are willing to drag around one of those," the group said.

Sea shanties, polkas, reels, jigs, waltzes, ballads and more are hacked out by band members David Longaker, Jim Williams, Debra Cowan and David Cowan.

The quartet boasts they will "work for reasonable rates so we can pay off our Visa and Mastercard accounts...since two of us teach at public schools, one works for a left-wing government agency and the fourth is independently wealthy (and won't share)!"

Tar'd and Feathered will perform at 5 p.m. Friday on the Main Stage.
