Dr. Rajeev Taranath will be at the festival Saturday to play his sarod, a stringed instrument of India.

Sarod player brings spirituality to music

One of the foremost sarod players in India, Dr. Rajeev Taranath will perform Saturday on the Main Stage at 4 p.m.

His music is characterized by his diversity of approach and powerful visualization. He began playing the sarod when he was past 20 years old.

Rajeev has a long and versatile career as a concert artist, composer, music director and teacher of music. He has traveled extensively in India, Australia, Yemen, the United States and Europe.

His performances are noted for their innovative sophistication, thoughtfulness, vibrancy of tone, skillful imagination and aesthetic sense.

The New York Times appreciated the "exuberance and versatility of his playing, which ranged from the spirited to the spiritual."
