New dean to deliver graduation address

Risa Palm, the new dean of the University's College of Arts and Sciences, will deliver the 1991 summer commencement address at summer term ceremonies Saturday.

More than 1,100 degree candidates are eligible to participate in Saturday's ceremonies at Hayward Field. The ceremony will be moved to McArthur Court in case of rain.

In her speech, "Commencement: Could You Have Done More?," Palm will speak on the importance of getting a liberal arts education and challenging graduates to take a leading role in responding to environmental and economic concerns throughout the world.

By becoming the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Palm heads the University's largest college. She is also the only woman dean among the University's various schools.
