

Make effort to see college videos

From fine cinema to 'Animal House,' here's the top 10

As far as escapism from the ivory towers goes, what could be more appropriate than a video about campus life?

As you enter the University's hallowed halls, your heart and mind are undoubtedly filled with good intentions. You promise yourself to study hard. You aspire to make your time here enriching. This is the year that you pledge to pull that 4.0 GPA. You will be committed to the rigors and rewards of hard work and perseverance.

This will last about two weeks.

When you reach the point at which your greatest effort is put forth to find something other than school work to occupy your time, we have provided a list of movies which in some way pertain to the college experience — thereby providing a rationalization for watching them. If you're like me and many of my friends, you will use your video membership card at least as often as your student ID. It's inevitable, so why fight it? Welcome back to school. Have fun watching the videos.

10: Hamburger ... The Motion Picture — Set in a place called Hamburger University, where young minds are molded into patties, this is what will happen if you don't concentrate on your studies at an institute of higher learning. Featuring the acting talents of NFL great Dick Butkus, from which most of the laughs are derived.

9: Revenge of the Nerds — A fraternity movie for those who hate frats. You may like it even if you love frats. It's a great campus fantasy movie wherein the aforementioned nerds get the gorgeous women and revenge on the hateful jocks.

8: Paper Chase — So you think you have a tough schedule? This group of aspiring lawyers even show up to their discussion groups and have a hard time getting through school. A great showcase of acting talent, particularly from John Housman as Professor Kingsfield. He almost makes one want to become an attorney. But, thankfully, not quite.

7: Sorority Babes in the

Slimeball Bowl-O-Rama — T&A comedy/horror movie featuring some unusual initiation rites and attractive women who look like they graduated college five years ago. They team up with some campus outcasts to defeat demons in a bowling alley. This one lives down to expectations.

6: The Nutty Professor — This is the only Jerry Lewis movie, besides The King of Comedy, that is a must-see. It's
