for you. All I Want For Christmas at least promises to feature some of that always-popular Christmas music everybody loves, and Beauty and the Beast and An American Tail are two full-length cartoon movies out this season that you might want to take little brothers or sisters to.

Cape Fear is a terrific movie that has nothing to do with Christmas, but is still worth the time, and My Father's Glory is coming to the Bijou and has met with great reviews so far. Most theaters offer a $3 matinee price, which is something to keep in mind after the Christmas shopping frenzy is over.

This Christmas promises to be filled with plenty of interesting entertainment that is there for the taking. Good thing we don't have school for three weeks to divert us from it all.
