just gave her the aphorisms," he said. Friedman noted that she liked the book. "We're still friends, but she's married now," he said.

But Friedman isn't sorry. The resulting book has been a positive experience for him. "It's not a book you need, but one that's fun to have," he said.

Glance at some of Friedman's collected words of wisdom to whet your amorous appetite:

• As to beauty and love, someone once remarked, "The average girl would rather have beauty than brains because she knows the average man can see much better than he can think."

• As to marriage and love, Helen Rowland, an American humorist, observed, "Before marriage, a man will lie awake all night thinking about something you said; after marriage, he'll fall asleep before you finish saying it."

• Ben Franklin advised, "Keep your eyes wide open before marriage and half shut afterwards."

• Sir Oliver Wendell Holmes Sr. noted, "Man has his will, but woman has her way."

Lest the would-be lover be discouraged, English writer Oscar Wilde advised, "Keep love in your heart. A life without it is like a sunless garden when the flowers are dead. The consciousness of loving and being loved brings warmth and richness to life that nothing else can bring."

Sigh.

And from the Bible, "And now these three remain: faith, hope and love. But the greatest of these is love."

'Before marriage, a man will lie awake all night thinking about something you said; after marriage, he'll fall asleep before you finish saying it.'

—Helen Rowland
American humorist

The 1991 American Reference Book Annual said of A Love Dictionary, "Witty, profound and sometimes just plain fun. It will be welcomed by anyone — reader, writer or librarian — who has ever searched in vain for 'just the right quote' on the subject of love."

The book can be ordered by sending $9.95 plus $2 shipping and handling to Yara Press, P.O. Box 1063, Arcata, CA 95521.
