No fooling

In the March 30 Emerald, Tony Mills said the EMU Budget Committee has been presented with a proposal that offers alternatives to cutting student and GTF positions at the EMU. It's clear that action needs to be taken to find ways of saving money, but the way to do this is not to reduce student fees.

In the March 31 Emerald cover story, ASUO presidential and vice presidential hopefuls Don King and Holly Ferguson propose to do just that very thing. Have no lessons been learned from the Reagan/Bush years? If money is tight now, do they think the situation would be improved by a 10 percent cut in student fees? This seems suspiciously like a similar proposal to that of George Bush and his would-be tax rebate, which has been soundly criticized by Republicans and Democrats alike.

King and Ferguson's proposed action and Ferguson's response, make a tough situation even worse, probably forcing layoffs of dozens of students employed at the EMU. We need candidates and a leadership that will bring viable alternatives and solutions to the problems in the management of our financial resources, not the tired old rhetoric constantly echoed by conservatives.

Don't be fooled by King and Ferguson's "new and fresh ideas" — ideas that are really old and tired. Let's elect candidates that will really work effectively for the entire student body.

Cute

I thought the story about Myles Brand being a student for a day was cute (ODE April 2). I especially liked it when he put on the T-shirt to be a student. That was a good idea.

I used to hate Myles Brand, but now I think he is a lot of fun. Please do more stories about Myles Brand being a student for a day.

Lost

On Page 1 of the April 1 issue of the Emerald, you have a map of southeast Oregon as part of your article "Big Country." It shows Highway 95 leading to California. Please note that this highway leads to Nevada, not California. At the point where 95 leaves Oregon, the California border is at least 100 miles to the west.

In fact, almost all of Southeast Oregon, as portrayed on your map, borders on Nevada rather than California.
