

IFC CANDIDATE PROFILES

Editor's note: Profiles of all the 19 candidates running for positions on the Incidental Fee Committee will run through next Tuesday. Interviews with the one-year candidates will run first.

William Gaskill

William Gaskill, candidate for a one-year IFC seat, is a senior political science major. He has held offices on the Bean Complex dormitory board and is currently a secretary for the board.

ODE: Do you favor across-the-board cuts as a means of keeping fees low, and if so, how much?

Gaskill: I don't favor across-the-board cuts because that doesn't distinguish between programs that are essential or very important and those that are marginally important. I believe that where we should look, first of all, would be stipends and the student government, as well as the EMU and the athletic department, anything that we could get out of there.

ODE: How would you ensure that every group gets a fair hearing and a fair budget?

Gaskill: Reading through the (ASUO) Constitution, the IFC by Nov. 1 is supposed to put out their guidelines about the fees that will go through the coming year. I would like that November statement to be the functional equivalent of the budget resolution in the U.S. Congress, where they say 'this is the money we think we will have and based on past percentages, this is what will be available.'

Also, it seems to me that the hearings on the major items and organizations comes at the end, and I know that happens with every legislative body, but I think we should start those a little earlier. And we should listen to everybody.

ODE: Do you believe it's appropriate to hold current group directors accountable for mismanagement by former directors?

Gaskill: I believe that there would have to be some sort of consequence to the organization. I don't believe in holding the current people directly responsible. But I would think something on the nature of perhaps a probationary period of a year for the organization, where they're watched a little more closely, would take care of that.

ODE: Would you be in favor of cutting large budgets to compensate for increasing or maintaining the budgets of smaller groups?

Gaskill: As I said, in what I hope would happen in November, we would take an opportunity to say 'this the amount of money we have,' and based on the past, a certain percentage would go to each group.

Then in the hearing process, go through the fine tuning and if you come up with savings in one area, I would have no problem with the smaller groups getting a little extra. But I wouldn't be in favor of a general fee increase.

ODE: Why should students vote for you?

Gaskill: At least for the years I've been at the University, the student government has pretty much spoken with one voice, for the left of the spectrum. I believe that to have an accountable and responsible government, there needs to be both of the ideological sides.

I'm from the right of the spectrum and I believe I could bring that viewpoint to the government. I believe the IFC and the ASUO should operate like a checks-and-balances system.
