Quake cleanup effort begins

NATIONAL

SCOTIA, Calif. (AP) — Millworkers restacked lumber Monday and firefighters hosed the remains of the town's center, which caught fire during a series of violent earthquakes that caused about $51 million in damage.

"I guess it's unemployment," said John Mock, pointing to the black hole that once was the lumber store where his wife, Arlene, worked. "That was our only income."

Cleanup efforts also were under way in Fortuna, Rio Dell, Petrolia and Ferndale, small towns in Northern California's "Lost Coast" region damaged by Saturday's magnitude-6.9 temblor and two sharp aftershocks early Sunday.

Ninety-five people were injured, none seriously, according to an informal survey of hospitals.

The Red Cross, which had completed 65 percent of its survey by Monday, said 308 homes were damaged by the quake, and 247 were uninhabitable.

About 1,000 people registered at shelters in Rio Dell and Scotia, but only about 100 actually slept at the two centers.

"Because of the magnitude of the two aftershocks, we're finding many people are reluctant to stay inside buildings. They are using tents (and) sleeping bags," said Elizabeth Quirk, a Red Cross spokeswoman.

The state Office of Emergency Services estimated damage at $51 million. Gov. Pete Wilson declared Humboldt County a disaster area and county officials said Monday they'll ask the Bush administration for a federal disaster declaration, making damage victims eligible for more aid.

The quakes spared the large Scotia complex belonging to Pacific Lumber Co., which operates the company-built town of neat frame houses, but knocked over stacks of lumber in the yard.

About 700 mill workers were asked to report to work Monday to begin cleaning up, said Pacific Lumber President John Campbell.

The first serious aftershock hit at 12:42 a.m. Sunday and measured 6.0 on the Richter scale. The second, magnitude 6.5, hit at 4:18 a.m.

Both were centered near the spot where the first quake struck, south of Eureka, about 270 miles north of San Francisco. People as far away as Fresno, 460 miles to the south, felt the second aftershock.

Scotia resident Hazel Sarlund said the first aftershock was bad enough. Then she saw the red glow in the sky.

"It was terribly upsetting," Sarlund said. "It felt like the end to everything was coming."

The fire raged through the town's shopping center, destroying a lumber yard, pharmacy, coffee shop, grocery store, hardware store and variety store. By Monday, only a few hot spots remained. Children, whose schools were closed because of the disaster, watched the firefighting effort from their bicycles. Some searched smashed newspaper vending machines for coins.

The initial quake started fires in Petrolia, where the post office and other buildings burned to the ground.

National Guard units trucked in drinking water to the four hardest-hit towns.

Thousands of aftershocks have been recorded, said Pat Jorgenson, a U.S. Geological Survey spokeswoman in Menlo Park.

During the seven-day period ending next Sunday night, there's a 15 percent chance of another aftershock of magnitude 6 or larger, and a 65 percent chance of another magnitude 5 or larger aftershock, the USGS said.

A magnitude-6 quake can cause severe damage and a magnitude-7 quake is considered a "major" quake, capable of widespread heavy damage.
