DUCK FOOTBALL PREVIEW

Ducks begin season without QB quagmire

By Steve Mims
Emerald Sports Reporter

If the Oregon Ducks are to improve on last season's 3-8 debacle, confidence and optimism must start at the top, and starting quarterback Danny O'Neil seems to have those traits.

"It's not optimism; it's confidence," O'Neil said. "There is no question we'll be a good football team and go to a bowl, it's just a matter of which bowl, maybe even the Rose Bowl."

If that sounds overly optimistic, it is, but O'Neil and the rest of the Oregon squad have many reasons to feel good about the upcoming season. This year's team appears to have two things last year's didn't: health and depth.

Last year, O'Neil went into camp as one of four quarterbacks battling for the starting job. This year, he has been the No. 1 man all along and the increased confidence shows. O'Neil showed flashes of brilliance during the first two games of 1991 in leading the Ducks to a 2-0 record.

O'Neil tied a school record by throwing four touchdown passes in a 28-13 victory at Texas Tech. In five games, he threw for 713 yards and seven touchdowns while tossing only three interceptions.

O'Neil will have a lot more help on offense this season, especially at halfback, where a three-way battle for the starting spot took place in the fall. Senior Donovan Moore, junior Sean Burwell and redshirt freshman Ricky Whittle could all see significant playing time this season.

Moore was the only running back to stay healthy throughout last year and says that may be his greatest asset.
