

Men's tennis wins three at home

The Oregon men's tennis team opened the 1992 season this weekend with three non-conference wins at the campus courts.

In a five-team tournament that included Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois State and Portland, the Ducks showed great potential by going undefeated over the weekend.

On Friday afternoon Oregon registered a 5-2 win over Illinois State. The Ducks' top player, Lee Kirner dropped the first set to the Redbirds' Stephen Bell, 1-6, but roared back to take the next two sets 6-3, 6-4.

Junior Christian Oelke also had some problems in his match, dropping the first set to Steve Moeku but later came on to get the win for the Ducks. Sophomores Josh Prager and Dara Partovi, and senior Rob Atkin also claimed wins for Oregon.

Saturday morning rains forced the Ducks' match with Idaho to be moved to the covered courts, but the change in scenery did not affect Oregon in a 4-2 win over the Vandals. Kirner, Oelke and Partovi all won in straight sets, and Prager struggled early in the match in his 4-6, 7-5, 6-3 win over Idaho's Mark Hadley.

Sunday the Ducks met their toughest test of the weekend squeaking by Hawaii 4-3. Oregon received early wins in the doubles competition with contributions from Kirner/Atkin and Partovi/Prager.

Kirner suffered his first loss of the weekend, losing a tough match to the Rainbows' Chanon Alcon 2-6, 3-6. Oregon roared back in the match, getting a key win from Prager, who defeated Hawaii's Blair Collis 7-5, 2-6, 6-4. The Ducks sealed the victory with Dara Partovi's 6-4, 7-6 win over Mai Hansjurgans.

Idaho won two matches over the weekend, and Hawaii went 2-2, losing to the Vandals and Oregon. Portland went 1-1, beating Illinois State and losing to Hawaii, and Illinois State was winless.

The Ducks take two weeks off before traveling to San Jose on Oct. 30 to play in the Rolex Regional Championships.

Ducks taking an early lead. The Wildcats, who went 0-18 in conference play last year, made it easy for the Ducks by committing eight attack errors in the game.

During game three, Oregon players' minds seemed more intent on making it to Autzen Stadium in time for the opening kickoff rather than finishing off the Wildcats. Arizona outside hitters Charita Johnson and Tiffany Jesteadt combined for six consecutive kills to break open what had been a close 5-4 game. Oregon did little to help its own cause, giving away the final three points of the game on blocking and attack errors.

Despite trying several blocking schemes, Arizona had no answer for Warren in the fourth game, as she seemingly scored at will. In addition to her nine kills during the game, she also played extremely well on defense, recording two solo blocks. LaReina Woods scored the final three points for the Ducks, the final point coming on a service ace.

Oregon head coach Gerry Gregory seemed pleased with the team's play.

"We played some near perfect volleyball at times today," Gregory said after the match. "We had some unforced errors in game three, but we kept hammering away and we fought hard. As for Stephanie Warren's performance, I can't say enough; it was incredible."

Announcement of Graduate Teaching Fellowship for the Carlton Raymond and Wilberta Ripley Savage Professorship in International Relations and Peace

The committee that selects the distinguished Carlton Raymond and Wilberta Ripley Savage Professor in International Relations and Peace is pleased to announce an opening for a Graduate Teaching Fellow (GTF) to assist the 1992-93 professor, Winona LaDuke.

Winona LaDuke is an Anishnabeg (Ojibwe) Native from the White Earth Reservation in White Earth, Minnesota. She is a graduate of Harvard and holds a master's degree in rural development from Antioch College. Currently, she is the director of the White Earth Land Recovery Project and is well known as an environmental activist. In March, LaDuke visited the University of Oregon as one of the keynote speakers for the 1992 Environmental Law Conference. LaDuke is president of the Aboriginal Women's Network.

The GTF will assist LaDuke in teaching two courses during the spring term of 1993, consisting of a large undergraduate class tentatively titled "Indigenous Human Rights: A Woman's Perspective" and a smaller graduate seminar focusing on indigenous economies. The GTF will also work with the Savage Professorship Committee and its chair during winter term 1993 in preparing for LaDuke's teaching during the spring. The GTF position may be appointed a .20 FTE for the winter, a possible .40 for the spring, and .20 for the summer.

Candidates should be enrolled as a graduate student at the University of Oregon in a field related to LaDuke's courses and expertise such as anthropology; history; economics; education; environmental studies; geography; folklore and ethnic studies; international studies; peace studies; planning; public policy and management; political science; sociology; and women's studies. Candidates should have a strong interest in human rights issues, indigenous people and economies, and women's issues on an international scale. They should also possess strong cross-cultural communication, organizational, and writing skills.

Those interested in applying should submit a current vita, two letters of reference, and a short essay indicating why you would like to work with Winona LaDuke. Applications should be submitted to the Office of International Affairs, 221 Johnson Hall (attention Lynn Buffing, 346-2167) no later than November 16, 1992.
