

Tennis team struggles in tourney

The Oregon men's tennis team struggled this past weekend at the Rolex Western Regional Championships in San Jose.

In a talented field featuring players from nationally ranked programs like California, Stanford and Washington, the Ducks had limited success, failing to move anyone past the second round of the tournament.

In singles play, Oregon went 2-7, receiving its only wins from senior Lee Kirner and junior Dara Partovi. Kirner opened play with a 6-1, 6-2 thrashing of Santa Clara's Steve Miller but was later knocked out of the tournament with a second-round loss Sunday to Pacific's Adi Kremer.

Partovi beat Brett Murio of San Jose State 7-5, 6-0, but was later eliminated from the competition, losing to Robbie Wendell of Washington on Sunday.

Oregon's doubles teams also posted first-round victories in the tournament but were unable to advance. The teams of Kirner/Rob Atkin, Christian Oelke/Jon Amundsen and Partovi/Josh Prager opened with wins on Sunday but were knocked out of the tournament on Monday.

Despite the losing mark in San Jose, the Ducks are 3-0 in dual competition for the fall. Last month, Oregon opened the season with victories over Hawaii, Idaho and Illinois State.

Oregon will enjoy a long break until the Pacific-10 Conference Indoor Championships in Seattle from Jan. 17-20.

Ex-Duck Miller has knee surgery

ATLANTA (AP) — Chris Miller's sixth NFL season ended at the midway mark Monday when the Atlanta Falcons quarterback underwent reconstructive surgery on his left knee.

Dr. John Garrett's arthroscopic examination revealed a complete tear of the anterior cruciate ligament. It took 90 minutes to repair the damage. Garrett said the surgery went well and that Miller was in stable condition.

Miller was injured in the third quarter of the Falcons' 30-28 victory over the Los Angeles Rams Sunday when he was scrambling for yardage. He had gained about 10 yards when he planted his left foot to cut. His knee buckled, and he went down immediately, dropping the ball and grabbing his left knee.

Initial reports were that Miller appeared to have a torn cartilage and deep bone bruise, an injury that would have kept him out for 4-6 weeks.

There was no immediate reaction from coach

Jerry Glanville and other team officials. The Falcons reported to the Suwanee camp earlier Monday, watched a film of the Rams game, jogged a few laps and left before Miller's condition was known.

"I ran to the left and was going to cut back right, sort of underneath the defensive back, then go into my slide," Miller said from his home Sunday night. "I just heard the thing pop. It hurt like a son of a gun."

Although eight games remain, Ken Herock, the team's vice president of player personnel, said he doubts the Falcons will attempt to sign another quarterback.

Billy Joe Tolliver replaced Miller on Sunday and threw the game-winning touchdown pass early in the fourth quarter. The Falcons also have Wade Wilson on the roster.

Tolliver played two seasons with San Diego before becoming Miller's backup last year.
