

Holiday Sports

FOOTBALL

ed offers a home video of important historical football events in case there is a national emergency or a presidential address and there is no football on TV.

So if you really want to create a home filled with holiday ambiance, you will also need a large couch and two or three reclining chairs with good spring action so viewers can jump out and cheer during important and suspenseful plays.

A soft floor is also a must. It's not uncommon to see fans drop to the ground and roll around in agony after an unsuccessful play.

To effectively spread holiday cheer you will also need an abundant supply of chips, pretzels and nuts all colored in green and red. A case or two of beer, with each can festively decorated with Santa's well-stacked little helpers is also a must. These make great holiday pyramids.

So as the saying goes "Deck the halls with games that make you jolly, fa la la la la!" and when you go to church this holiday season remember to pray for your favorite team.
