

Wrestlers finish 22nd in tourney

While conference opponents Arizona State and Oregon State looked sharp, the Oregon wrestling team could only muster a 22nd place in the 32-team Las Vegas Hall of Fame Wrestling Invitational.

Chris Jensen, a junior transfer from Notre Dame, was the only Oregon wrestler to place in the tournament. Jensen took seventh place in the 118-pound class by defeating Randy Zelner of Central Oklahoma.

Wrestling coach Ron Finley said he was disappointed with Oregon's low placing in the tournament.

"We could have done better," Finley said. "We had a lot of close matches, but I think we'll continue to improve. That's why we go to the tough tournaments, so our wrestlers can face some tough competition."

Finley also said the team was hampered by the lack of a wrestler in the 150-pound division and Mat Sprague's failure to make his 167-pound weight limit.

Arizona State won the tournament, and defending Pacific-10 Conference champion Oregon State took fourth place. Oregon will meet Oregon State on Saturday at Gill Coliseum for its Pac-10 dual-meet opener.

Ducks at 1-4 after loss

Pacific beat the Oregon men's basketball team 80-68 Saturday for the Ducks' fourth straight loss.

Oregon was never really in the game, shooting 38 percent from the field and hitting only six of 21 three-pointers. Duck guard Antoine Stoudamire scored 22 and was the game's leading scorer, but he got little help from his teammates.

Oregon starting forwards Aaron Johnson and Jeff Potter combined for only two points and six rebounds.

Pacific started the game by jumping out on an 18-2 run. The loss dropped Oregon to 1-4 on the season. The Ducks return home for a game Wednesday against Alaska-Fairbanks at McArthur Court.
