points and eight rebounds in the game. He scored 17 in the second half after missing numerous easy shots in the first half.

A win's a win, but it was obvious that Wednesday's performance was far from being close to the level the Ducks will have to play in the Pacific-10 Conference. Oregon has yet to put together a 40 minute game. The Ducks have shown signs of being a fairly good team, but part of being a good team is being consistent. Oregon has yet prove they can play consistent basketball.

Antoine Stoudamire has led the Ducks in scoring this season with a 16-point average, and Orlando Williams is averaging 13 a game. Stoudamire has had a hard time finding his shot at times, and isn't shooting nearly as much as he did last year. On the other hand, coach Jerry Green's new system has benefited Williams greatly. Williams' scoring average is up five points from last year, as he has looked more confident shooting the outside jumper.

Aaron Johnson and Jeff Potter have looked good at times, but have been inconsistent. Johnson had 13 points on Wednesday as Potter had nine points and six rebounds.

The Vandals are 3-1 and coming off a victory over Washington State Wednesday. Idaho is led by forward Orlando Lightfoot, who is averaging 14 points and five rebounds so far this season. Guard Marvin Rooks is also averaging 14 a game.

The Ducks will play Missouri-St. Louis on Dec. 12 and Pacific Lutheran on Dec. 21 before participating in the Far West Classic in Portland after Christmas.
