The Oregon women's basketball team stayed with fourth-ranked Stanford for 34 minutes on Saturday night before the Cardinal pulled away from the Ducks to win the game 91-72 at McArthur Court.

Stanford led 67-61 when Oregon center Sara Wilson fouled out with 7:37 remaining in the game, and the Cardinal outscored the Ducks 24-11 during the rest of the contest. With both Wilson and injured 6-foot-4 forward Debbie Sporich out, Stanford pounded the ball inside during the final seven minutes to run away from the Ducks.

"Once Sara went out, we had no one to match up with them size-wise," Oregon head coach Elwin Heiny said. "They were pushing the ball inside late in the game, and we had to match them with 5-foot-10 players."

Oregon, now 0-2 in the conference and 6-5 overall, stayed with the Cardinal throughout the first half and led by as many as eight points at 24-16 with 9:05 left in the half. Stanford responded with a 12-1 run to take a 28-25 lead before Or-
