

Contiki

for 18-35 year olds

okay, okay. i'm walkin down the street in italy and i see this really cool belt in the window of this great shop. well, the way i got it figured is that my cash isn't going to last till i get to the french part of the trip. budgeting was not something i wanted to worry about right now...all i wanted was that belt. it wasn't long before i remembered that the answer to my concerns was in my wallet. i entered the shop where i was met by this totally awesome italian lady who proceeded to sell me (without much effort) the object of my desire. somehow my attention had turned from my purchase to this saleslady who's accent was really great. i figured what do i have to lose and asked her in some sort of broken italian if she was busy after work. we ended up at one of those great restaurants you see in the movies. it was a good day, but i realized it could have turned out a lot different if i hadn't had my contiki mastercard. wow, and i haven't even made it to paris yet!
