

Walsh: Advisers were to testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan's chief of staff and secretary of state was prepared to testify that his administration misstated facts about the Iran arms sales to protect the president from impeachment, the Iran-Contra prosecutor said Monday.

Special Prosecutor Lawrence Walsh suggested in a report to Congress that Attorney General Edwin Meese "was warning the president's advisers that to disclose the president's knowledge" of a 1985 missile shipment to Iran "would expose him to a charge of illegal activity."

If Caspar Weinberger had gone to trial, former White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan was prepared to testify that he knew it was untrue when Meese stated in a Nov. 24, 1986, White House meeting that the president hadn't known about the Hawk missile shipment, Walsh said in an interim report to Congress.

Regan "was concerned about the possibility of impeachment," Walsh contended.

Regan, Meese and Secretary of State George Shultz all knew at the Nov. 24, 1986, meeting that Meese's statement regarding the president's knowledge "was false," said Walsh's report.

"Vice President Bush should have known the statement was false, because he was present for a national security briefing in 1985 at which (National Security Adviser Robert) McFarlane explained" the shipment, the report added.

A Weinberger trial "would have exposed new evidence of the administration's efforts to conceal the facts of the Iran arms sales from the public and from Congress," Walsh said in the report.

The trial was canceled when President Bush pardoned Weinberger and five other Iran-Contra figures, Walsh called the pardon a "misuse of this power."

Weinberger was "a former colleague" of Bush's and his prosecution "arose out of events in which the president himself participated," said Walsh.

"President Bush acted with compassion and good conscience in his pardons, but we will not comment on Judge Walsh's report," said spokesman Andrew Maner.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, a frequent critic of Walsh's investigation, called the report "a last ditch effort to justify his extravagant $35 million partisan crusade."

Medicine demand ends in shooting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A gunman yelling for pain medicine shot and critically wounded three doctors in a hospital emergency room Monday, authorities said. He then held two women hostage for several hours before releasing them unharmed and surrendering.

The man had told police negotiators he was 45 years old and "a disgruntled former patient. It apparently has to do with what he perceives to be poor medical treatment," said Los Angeles Police Department Lt. John Dunkin.

The gunman entered the emergency room of Los Angeles County-University of Southern California Medical Center at 12:40 p.m. and opened fire on a group of doctors sitting at a desk near the door, hospital spokesman Harvey Kern said.

Patient Hope Flynn said she heard a man demanding pain medication seconds before the shots rang out.
