Romancing the Town

WARM THE HEART

As Valentine's Day draws near, people everywhere are beginning to wonder just how they will romance that special someone with an enchanted evening.

Of course, it requires careful thought to create a mood rich in ambiance and bursting with passion. But with these few simple ideas even the most unromantic can sweep others off their feet.

A classic romantic evening always begins with a candlelight dinner for two. But at North's Chuck Wagon you can impress your date with a dinner big enough for six or seven. Here you will find the classic elegance of all you can eat, blended with the charm of assorted Jell-O salads and a make-your-own sundae bar. Come and enjoy the mystery of Chuck's, where you can gaze lovingly across your tray into your lover's twinkling eyes as he playfully squeezes mashed potatoes through his teeth.

Or, why not escape into a world where love knows no boundaries? A world where the only thing between you and your lover is a pair of roller skates and a bag of cotton candy tied securely to your belt loop. Escape into Skate World.

This romantic getaway is nestled within the fluorescent confines of Gateway Mall and provides an exquisite view of the freeway. Here, you and your lover can bask in the subtle ambiance of strobe lights, while the poetic music of Olivia Newton John fills your ears with easy-listening favorites like "Xanadu."

You and your sweetheart can grasp hands still sticky from cotton candy and glide gracefully toward the skating floor as they announce the couples-only skate from the booth.

And for those of you still looking for that special someone, Skate World provides the perfect setting to show off your skills and win the heart of some lucky person.

"It takes a little fancy footwork," said University senior Scott Maitland, "but I can do a mean 'shoot the duck.'"

"That's how he won my heart," said Maitland's girlfriend, Amy Head. "He came out of nowhere, crouched low on the skating floor, one foot extended out in front of him, balancing strongly on the other. I couldn't take my eyes off him all night."

But if your skating moves need a little brushing up, you can always partake in a night of passion on the dance floor. Sweep your sweetheart away with the
