

10 reasons to recycle

10. The plastic soda can six-pack rings make for great party decor when cut like fringe.

9. The new great American credo is, "I'm rich, I'm powerful and I mulch my grass."

8. A great pick-up line is, "Hey, how about that compost heap?"

7. Lobbing crushed cans into the recycling bin is both noisy and fun ... anytime past midnight is particularly annoying and satisfying.

6. Beer can pyramid building can be great party entertainment.

5. Your grandchildren will be very impressed with you. (Talk about scary thoughts.)

4. It's a politically correct 90's kinda thing.

3. You can brag, act noble and, in general, be obnoxious.

2. It makes you feel good, in the morning.

1. It keeps goats out of your room.

Tab man

Wesley Weathers saves lives through recycling pop can tabs by the millions. Weathers was responsible for setting up the recycling program at the University. It takes 1,000 can tabs to make a pound and the Dialysis Center in Albany receives 18 cents per pound. See related article, Page 3B.

Environmentally conscious buyer

If you don't buy it they won't make it

- Flexible plastic containers like soda pop bottles or squeeze catsup containers. They're made from as many as six layers of plastic; incidentally, they live for centuries in landfill.
- Styrofoam (polystyrene) anything and disposable razors.

- Individual small servings or containers of anything.
- Scented toilet paper, colored paper towels and bleached coffee filters.
- Aerosol sprays, pesticides, regular batteries, detergents with phosphates
