

Oregon coach returns

Oregon men's basketball coach Jerry Green returned to practice Tuesday after missing Monday's session with knee problems.

Green had his right knee drained on Monday after it swelled up over the weekend. A week ago, Green had to undergo arthroscopic surgery on his left knee after it too swelled up during Oregon's trip to Los Angeles.

Jamie Klund, assistant sports information director at the University said it is still not known what caused the mysterious knee problems. Green had steroids injected in the knee Monday to keep the swelling down and bacteria out.

The first-year coach is expected to make the road trip this week when the Ducks face Arizona State on Thursday and Arizona on Saturday.

The Ducks are coming off a two-game sweep of the Washington schools this past weekend.

Ducks win indoor meet

Defeating Washington and Washington State was the easy part.

The real challenge for the Oregon track team at the Portland indoor track meet last weekend was just getting to Memorial Coliseum on time.

Bad weather made the trip to Portland difficult for the members of the men's and women's track team.

Despite the trouble women's coach Tom Heinonen and men's coach Bill Dellinger had in rounding up their teams, Oregon won the Northwest Team Challenge over the two Washington schools. Oregon narrowly outpointed Washington State 113-102 for the title.

Women golfers eighth in opener

By Steve Mims

The Oregon women's golf team began its spring season with an eighth-place finish at the Chris Johnson Invitational Tuesday in Tucson, Ariz.

The Ducks started strong at Randolph Park Golf Course by firing a 306 in the opening round and were in seventh place, but they slipped to 310 and 311 in the final two rounds to finish eighth. The tournament field was tough as nine of the top 11 teams were ranked in the Top 30 after the fall season.

Sophomore Karly Mills led the Ducks in the opening round with a 75, while the rest of the team all shot 77s. Oregon was ahead of third-ranked Arizona State and 16th-ranked Oklahoma after round one.

shot a 1-over-par 73 in the second round to pace the Ducks, followed by Mills and Shannon Maier who shot 78 and 79, respectively. The Ducks entered the final round tied with New Mexico for seventh place and were only seven shots out of fourth-place.

Oregon's final round score of 311 left it five shots behind New Mexico for seventh place, but only dropped one spot to eighth place. Oregon's finish was its lowest this year, but came against the toughest competition they have faced all year.

Casey led the Ducks with an 11-over-par 227 to finish in 11th place. Casey's 73 in the second round was her best as a collegiate and went along with a 77 in the first and third rounds. Casey's finish was her third Top 15 finish this year.

Mills and Maier tied for 31st place at 232. Mills followed her opening round 75 with rounds of 78 and 79. Maier opened the tournament with rounds of 77 and 79 on Monday before she finished with a 76 on Tuesday.

Oregon junior Cappy Mack shot a 77 in the first round but finished with rounds of 80 and 83. Becca Giersdorf shot rounds of 77 and 79 in the first and third rounds, respectively, but struggled with an 85 in the second round. Oregon's Shannon Hare, playing as an individual, finished in a tie for 51st place with a 239.

Oregon was ranked 19th in the final 1992 poll and finished ahead of Oklahoma as well as 24th-ranked New Mexico State and 27th-ranked Texas Christian.

The Ducks will take two weeks off before they play in the Brigham Young Invitational in Sandy, Utah on March 8-9.
