Ducks win battle for ninth, 84-73

By Dave Charbonneau

The Oregon men's basketball team won the battle between Pacific-10 Conference bottom-feeders, defeating Stanford 84-73 Thursday night at McArthur Court.

The Ducks (3-14, 10-19) scored the final nine points of the game and had five players in double figures as they crawled out of the bottom of the Pac-10 for the first time this season.

Stanford (2-15, 7-22) cut Oregon's lead to two points with just more than two minutes left in the game, but failed to score another point the rest of the way, as Oregon hit seven of 10 free throws for the win. The loss puts the Cardinal in last-place, where they are likely to stay barring an unlikely win against Oregon State Saturday.

"I feel sick about it," Stanford head coach Mike Montgomery said. "It's been the same thing all season. We don't make key plays at key points in the game. Oregon deserved to win. They did a nice job inside and shot the ball well."

Duck coach Jerry Green said he was happy to finally get out of the cellar, but don't expect him to break out the streamers and party favors.

"I'm not going to spend a lot of time partying because we finished ninth instead of 10th," he said. "But the players are smiling, and that's good to see."
