

AMBITION

Early in life, you wanted to grow up to do only what you thought would be fun.

I LOVE ANIMALS!
I WANNA BE A FARMER!

During elementary school, something new was introduced in your ambition: making more money.

I STILL WANT TO WORK WITH ANIMALS.
I WANT TO RUN A PETTING ZOO!

After high school, you had adjusted your goals to something more "realistic" but still halfway enjoyable.

I'D LIKE TO BE THE SUPERVISOR OF A VETERINARY HOSPITAL.

So why'd you end up being a chief legal advisor to the accounting branch of a major pet food manufacturer?

I SAID I LOVED ANIMALS, DAMMIT.
