Duck takes second at Salem race

The club cycling team continued its string of strong finishes Saturday when Ed Girard endured rain and strong winds to place second at the Piece of Cake Race in Salem.

Racing in the Category 4-5 division, which completed three laps on a 15-mile, mostly flat course, Girard joined a five-man group that broke away from the field at the beginning of the second lap.

Girard and eventual race-winner Stephen Sutton, of Portland's Specialized-Bike Gallery team, pushed the leaders' pace, whittling the group down to three riders after one lap.

Independent rider Mike Nelson remained with the break group but did little work.

Girard said he didn't have much confidence the break would be successful once the other riders began to fall off.

Sutton said losing two of his break companions so early also worried him.

"I would have liked to have kept them around longer," he said. "We had to work really hard to stay away."

But Sutton said with a Duck in the break, he knew Oregon would be trying to hamper any effort to reel in the leaders.

"I was totally committed to (the break)," Sutton said. "I was conscious there were so many UO riders in the field. They were clearly going to dominate. My only chance was to go with a break. And with a UO rider along, I knew (Oregon) would block."

With the break successfully away and Nelson conceding to the riders who had done the work, the race came down to a sprint between Girard and Sutton.

Sutton said Girard nearly lost him with his initial kick, but he was able to overtake the Oregon rider to win the race.

"I had to really dig deep to stay on him," Sutton said.

Girard said he knew Sutton had a strong sprint, and he wanted to get away from him early, but it didn't work.

"Basically I led-out for him," he said. "I need to learn to finish better."

Saturday's second-place finish adds to a successful season started by club member Graham Watson, who won the Category 4-5 division of the Lowell Park Road Race in Eugene the last weekend of March.

Club member Chris Davis continued the team's success when he won the Category 5 overall crown in the two-day Tour of Trinity in Northern California.
