DEBATE

the multicultural center when they won't feel the effects of it, given it'll take a year to start up."

Collins Puente said students need to help fund the multicultural center because administration has been slow in finding the needed money.

"I don't see a one-time fee as too much to ask from students given the other fees they're paying," she said.

Bowen said he didn't believe Warren and Johnson's idea for paying for more campus lightposts was realistic. The Adopt-A-Lightpost campaign would enable businesses to pay the costs for lightposts and get their names engraved on the posts in return.

"Three hundred is a lot in these hard economic times," Bowen said. "I can't imagine a business willing to give $300 simply get a plaque out of it. I don't believe it's as simple as the candidates have it."

store's bookkeeper. "People go to the safe to cash lottery tickets all the time, and it was a lunchtime rush, so we were all real busy."

Store employees said Strome acted according to store policy and commended him for his bravery.

"He saved a lot of people from getting hurt," Hahn said.

Police describe the suspect as a white male in his late 20s, 5-foot-8, about 150 pounds, and having dark black shoulder-length hair and a mustache. The man was wearing a brown corduroy jacket and jeans at the time of the robbery, said Tim Birr, Eugene police spokesman.

Birr said EPD officers searched the area for the suspect but found no one matching the description.

'My agenda is your agenda. I'm not a politician. I'm willing to listen to your issues.'

— Leslie Warren,
ASUO Executive candidate

Both sets of candidates agreed Incidental Fee Committee members should be held more accountable for their actions. The IFC has postponed several meetings the past few weeks because not enough members showed up.

Warren said she believed IFC members should be punished if they don't show up at the twice-weekly meetings. She suggested the ASUO withhold members' paychecks until they show they're responsible.

Tuesday was the deadline for applying for 1993-94 ASUO positions.

TRIAL

vehicles, and a chain-link fence went up around a parking lot across the street. Police said it would be used as a staging area.

About 600 National Guard troops trained at armories in Inglewood, Burbank, Glendale, Los Alamitos, Van Nuys and Arcadia.

"California guardsmen have been instructed that they are to use any means at their disposal to protect themselves or any other citizen if they are in threat of human death," said Maj. Gen. Tandy Bozeman.

Another military contingent was training 80 miles to the south. About 1,000 Marines at Camp Pendleton stormed a mock town as part of a "just-in-case" urban assault exercise, said Cpl. Rick Laemle, a base spokesman.

Hours after Sgt. Stacey Koon, officers Laurence Powell and Theodore Briseno and former Officer Timothy Wind were acquitted of most charges in a state trial last April, the city erupted in violence that left 54 people dead and caused nearly $1 billion damage.

Police under the leadership of former Chief Daryl F. Gates were criticized for their delayed response to the unrest, but new Chief Willie Williams has promised protection for the city's 3.6 million residents.
