

The Emerald Trophy: It really means a lot to ME!!

Excerpted from the Oregon Track Media Guide: "The Emerald Athletic Trophy award is sponsored jointly by the athletic department and the Oregon Daily Emerald, and is awarded annually to a University of Oregon student on the basis of outstanding achievement in the fields of athletics, scholarship, and citizenship."

The Emerald Athletic Award is a misnomer. No one from the Emerald ever had any say in who was to be awarded the trophy. Next year may be different, though, as associate athletic director Gary Gray said the Emerald may have some input into the award.

Some things are going to change next year if the Emerald finally gets a vote.

In order to get an idea of the athletes we are looking for, let me present the list of finalists I would have given to the athletic department (if I would have had a vote):

Scott Nicolas, track — Nicolas probably would have been a finalist for the award just because of the look of surprise he put on Washington State runner Samuel Kibiri's face when he passed him in the homestretch during the Pepsi Invitational.

But Nicolas definitely made the finalist list when he vomited on a certain Emerald reporter's shoes mid-sentence during an interview moments after an incredible attempt at the NCAA qualifying mark last week.

Joe Farwell, football — Farwell rebounded from some personal tragedies to lead the Oregon defense to one of its best seasons in history. Farwell also had the best quote of the year when he told the Emerald sports editor, Dave Charbonneau, "I don't care what you write about me; I don't read my press."

Second-best quote: Jerry Green after the Ducks beat Stanford to get out of the Pac-10 cellar: "I'm not going to stay up all night and party just because we took ninth in the conference."

Brad Nelson, basketball — Nelson, the Oregon student manager, was asked by coach Jerry Green to suit up for a game against Arizona when the Ducks were running low on players. Do you think you could have swallowed your lunch knowing you might have to play some ball against Chris Mills and Damon Stoudamire?

Although he never did get into the game, Nelson did have the distinction of being the only Oregon "basketball" player to make it on ESPN.

Pat Craig, wrestling — Craig wrestled for two seasons with a chronic shoulder injury, yet still managed to qualify for the NCAA tournament both years. Craig probably has the highest pain tolerance level of any University student — several times in his career he continued to wrestle after having a coach place his shoulder back into the socket.

Antoine Stoudamire, basketball — After the Ducks started out 0-9 in the conference, Stoudamire could have phoned in the rest of his season. But Stoudamire didn't quit and was simply the best guard in the conference in the final weeks of the conference season.

LaReina Woods, volleyball and track — Although she didn't quite run 'til she puked, Woods ran four races at the Pac-10 track meet, her "worst" effort being a fourth place in the 200 meters.

Woods is another athlete who had reason to grumble, but she kept a positive attitude throughout the volleyball team's disastrous 2-16 Pac-10 season.

Ronnie Harris, football and track — Although the Emerald never got to vote, I wholeheartedly agreed with the athletic department's decision to give Harris the Emerald trophy this year.

Erick Studenicka is a sports reporter for the Emerald.
