Portland events jazz up summer

By S. A. Clemens
Oregon Daily Emerald

If you're tired of the Eugene scene this summer, then take some good advice and get out of town.

Eugene has some attractions, but if you love sitting in the sun and listening to jazz, you had better head north.

The premiere musical event of the summer is the Mount Hood Jazz Festival. The festival, which takes place at Mount Hood Community College, has attracted some of the best in the jazz business for the past 12 years.

The event will open Friday, Aug. 6, with The Robert Cray Band, Albert Collins and The Dirty Dozen Brass Band and continue until Sunday, Aug. 8.

Other performers include Branford Marsalis, T.S. Monk and Curtis Salgado with Art Abram's Swing Machine on Saturday and The Count Basie Band, George Benson, Sonny Collins and Manhattan Transfer Sunday.

Highlights include Marsalis, who will be playing with the Tonight Show band. Salgado will be performing with the Art Abram's Swing Machine, which is a departure from the blues sound most fans associate with him.

It is always best to buy tickets ahead of time because the event is usually packed to its capacity of 10,000 every day, according to festival promoters. Tickets cost $25 per day and can be ordered by phone at 224-4400.

If you don't like the idea of coughing up money for your music, the Cathedral Park Jazz Festival,

July 17-18, is another option.

The park festival is the largest free jazz festival in the Northwest, with about 10,000 people attending each year. The event features eight bands, seven food booths and a beer garden. This year's headliner will be Les McCann and his band.

The park is located under the eastside of the St. John's Bridge in Portland.

Portland is also the place to find live music around the Tom McCall Waterfront Park. On any given day a visitor might be able to catch a performance by a local band.

Major events on the Waterfront include the Fountain Concert Series, which features local artists at McCall's Restaurant Fridays between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. and the Miller Genuine Draft Waterfront Blues Festival. The blues festival will have 40 bands performing for four days starting July 2 at 5 p.m. The music will play from noon through the evening Saturday, Sunday and Monday and will include a fireworks display on the Fourth of July.

Other Waterfront events to look out for are the Brewer's Festival and The Bite.

The Brewer's Festival, July 30-Aug. 1, is a gathering of the Northwest's independent beer makers. The event features the "best and most original brews" as well as music and food.

The Bite, Aug. 13-15, is Portland's annual food and beverage festival. Booths at The Bite are stocked by some of the areas best restaurants and taverns.

Peace Run to pass through Eugene

By Martin Fisher
Oregon Daily Emerald

The fourth bi-annual Peace Run will pass through Eugene Thursday, June 24, and organizers are encouraging all people interested in world peace to participate and carry the torch.

The Peace Run, which first began in 1987, started in New York in April and has wound its way through the southern states before working its way up the coast.

The run is sponsored by the Sri Chinmoy Marathon Team, an international sports organization that believes sports can be a powerful instrument for promoting world peace.

And although the 12-member Sri Chinmoy team carries the torch on its 11,000-mile U.S. journey, anyone interested may join in at any point along the route.

The torch will leave Veneta at 6:10 p.m. Thursday and will travel via Route 126 to Green Hill Road. At 7:50 p.m., the torch will arrive in Eugene at West 11th Avenue and Bertelsen Road. It will arrive at Bertelsen Road and Roosevelt Boulevard at 8 p.m., and will end the day at Peterson Park at 8:30 p.m., where a ceremony welcoming the runners will take place.

Eugene Peace Run Coordinator Kathy Tonge said people may carry the torch at any point along the route.

"We can be real accommodating," she said.

She asks that people who wish to carry the torch call her in advance at 461-2627. Participants may carry the torch for any distance.

"If they just want to run 50 feet, that's fine," Tonge said.

The route will be marked with banners so runners will know where to meet the torch, she said.

For people who don't want to run on the street, Tonge said they can carry the torch around the half-mile track at Petersen Park.

The torch will leave Eugene Friday and travel north on Highway 99 to Junction City and Corvallis, where it will arrive at 1:30 p.m. From Corvallis, it will move on to Salem for a ceremony at the steps of the Capitol at 7:30 p.m. The torch will arrive in Portland on Saturday for a 12:20 p.m. ceremony at the Terry Shunk Plaza.

Participants may join in any leg of the relay between Eugene and Portland and can make arrangements by calling Tonge.
