Art festival set for weekend

For the Oregon Daily Emerald

Eugene's annual Art and the Vineyard Festival promises a feast for the senses with a dazzling lineup of exhibits, continuous musical entertainment, wine tasting and gourmet eateries.

The Maude Kearns Art Center presents this 10th annual benefit, which takes place at Alton Baker Park July 2-4 from 11 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., with a suggested admission of $3 per person and $6 per family.

This year's special attraction is a Japanese Art Pavilion, featuring the works of 15 artists in interactive exhibits incorporating traditional Japanese art and culture. Brush painting, textiles, ceramics, paper making, a traditional tea ceremony, flower arranging and contemporary paintings and sculpture are a few of the Pavilion's attractions.

Visiting University Professor Akio Kaneyama sparked the effort to organize this special event with the hope the exhibition, "will create a stir for reconstructing a bridge over the troubled waters between our two countries and a stepping stone toward a cultural exchange, eventually resulting in an Oregon Art Exhibition in Tokyo."

Many community supporters and volunteers hope this event will kindle new trade opportunities for artists on both sides of the Pacific.

Musical entertainment continuing throughout the weekend includes top performers on the jazz, blues, country and folk music scenes. Scheduled acts include the rhythm and blues of the No DeLay Band, featuring Linda Hornbuckle; the Irene Farrera Tropical Band; blues artist Charlie Musselwhite; and award-winning keyboardist Deanna Bogart.

As these tunes filter through Alton Baker Park, festival goers can amble through exhibits displaying the finest in Japanese and Northwestern art.

The Oregon Art Pavilion, a covered outdoor gallery, will showcase the work of local artists including Mindy Dwyer, Margaret Coe, Margaret Stark Kemp, Mike Van and Mike Walsh. A sculpture park, designed by Eugene sculptor Mike Leckie, will feature the three-dimensional work of more than 20 local artists.

The Artists' Marketplace will feature the ceramics, metal work, jewelry, clothing, paintings, photography and sculpture of more than 100 local and regional artists.

Green thumbs will gravitate to Art For Your Garden, a landscaped setting within the park, giving visitors ideas on how to incorporate plants, fountains, containers and outdoor art objects in a number of garden settings.

Back by popular demand is the Chairs Plus exhibit, featuring chairs in all media that are imaginative, sculptural, altered, painted or otherwise decorated. In addition to local artists, local businesses have been invited to try their hand at creating chairs reflective of their organization and the services they provide.

The younger aesthete will appreciate the Children's Art Arena at the northern end of the park, where art-lovers ages four through 12 can enjoy face painting, origami, mask-making, mural paintings and bubble contests. Clowns and jugglers will entertain on a special stage for the performing arts.

Art and the Vineyard will also showcase wines from the Southern Willamette Winegrowers Association. Oregon wineries including Alpine Vineyards, Airlie Winery, Broadley Vineyards, Hinman Vineyards, Chateau Lorane, Houston Vineyards, Oregon Cellars Winery, Secret House Winery, Serendipity Cellars Winery, Springhill Cellars and Tyee Wine Cellars will offer wine tasting and tips on what to look for when buying wine.

Folks more inclined to cold brew can quench their thirst at the beer garden hosted by the Oregon Electric Station.

Festival-goers can clear their palettes or indulge without justification at the Food Fair, featuring more than 20 of the area's best restaurants-on-wheels. Guests can choose from tasty cuisine, including gyros, burritos, fajitas, seafood, Thai food, hamburgers, hand-dipped ice cream bars and freshly roasted coffee.

Art and the Vineyard patrons are encouraged to ride their bikes, ride the bus or walk to the festival due to limited parking for a fee at Alton Baker Park and the Cuthbert Amphitheatre. Following on the heels of Bike Commute Week, the Center for Appropriate Transport will sponsor a bicycle exhibit and parade. To encourage you to leave your car at home, CAT will provide free bicycle valet parking.

Complementing the spirits and cuisine is the following music schedule:

FRIDAY, JULY 2

- Gregory Field 12-1 p.m. - from Delta Blues to Celtic to original music. Field creates a unique emotional and spiritual storytelling with his finger-style guitar.

- Oomph! Intercontinental Klezmer 1:15-2:15 p.m. - "Yiddish Jazz" music. A mix of improvisational jazz, Yiddish theatre tunes, Chicago blues, Caribbean and Balkan rhythms combines to become what the band refers to as "Jewish party music gone haywire."

- Affinity 2:30-3:30 p.m. - Jazz/Fusion of the '90s.

- Mr. Blue 3:45-4:45 p.m. - Rhythm & blues fused with funk, jazz, salsa, and country.

- Ashok 5-6 p.m. - Caribbean and African grooves guide their exotic sound of sunny rock with soul.

- Deanna Bogart with the Full Service Band 6:30-8:30 p.m. - Boogie woogie jazz and R & B. Bogart is an award-winning keyboardist, singer, and tenor saxist and has been voted the best piano player in the Mid-Atlantic region for the past four years.

SATURDAY, JULY 3 - Sponsored by KLCC Radio

- Terra Nova 12-1 p.m. - Jazz

- Dangerous Household Objects 1:15-2:15 p.m. - A blend of hip originals ranging from cool funk to driving rock, savvy blues and everything in-between.

- Pyramid Breakfast 2:30-3:30 p.m. - An eclectic mix of jazz & classics, ballads & blues, and contemporary folk & rock.

- Shumba 3:45 - 4:45 p.m. - This energetic eight-piece marimba ensemble plays music from Shona traditions of Zimbabwe.

- More Time 5-6 p.m. - A dynamic variety of Reggae, Caribbean, and World Beat sounds.

- The Irene Farrera Tropical Band 6:30-8:30 p.m. - New music from Brazil and the Caribbean, as well as original songs from their new album "Walking In The Jungle".

SUNDAY, JULY 4 - Sponsored by KDUK Radio

- Mark Alan 12-1 p.m. - Oregon's contemporary singer songwriter plays his own blend of soulful originals.

- June and Jean Millington and Lyn Vidal 1:15-2:30 p.m. - Mystic rock and island rhythms.

- Art Grooveaux featuring Sue Miles 2:45-4:15 p.m. - Red-hot restless soul.

- The No DeLay Band featuring Linda Hornbuckle 4:30-6:00 p.m. - Mainline jazz, vintage blues and soul delivered with a modern edge.

- The Charlie Musselwhite Band 6:30-8:30 p.m. - Audio magazine calls Chicago's legendary bluesman "a screaming force of nature" with his trademark deep and soulful vocals.

Green thumbs will gravitate to Art For Your Garden, a landscaped setting within the park, giving visitors ideas on how to incorporate plants, fountains, containers and outdoor art objects in a number of garden settings.
