Bearing it

Anne Hadden, a University fine arts major, works last week on a replica of her father's wooden bear, a family heirloom. If she can make a good likeness of the wooden bear with clay, she gets to keep the wooden one for herself.

Major earthquake rocks Japan

TOKYO (AP) — A major earthquake struck northern Japan Monday, setting hundreds of houses ablaze and triggering tidal waves that destroyed homes and boats as far away as South Korea. At least 12 people were reported killed and at least 40 were missing.

The quake matched the strongest to hit Japan in 15 years, measuring 7.8 on the Richter scale, the Central Meteorological Agency said.

It was centered 30 miles under the Sea of Japan and about 50 miles west of Hokkaido, the nation's third most populous island with 5.65 million people. Several strong aftershocks followed in the same area.

Police confirmed seven dead on Hokkaido, eight injured and 19 missing, basing their information on incomplete reports from villages along the coast.

Okushiri, a small island just 30 miles south of the epicenter, was devastated by the quake.

Kyodo News Service said the island's two-story wooden Yoyoso Hotel collapsed, killing at least five people and leaving about 20 missing. The public television network NHK reported that six or seven people were rescued from the burning hotel.

About 300 houses were ablaze on another part of the island of 4,600 people. A number of houses also were washed away by tidal waves, they said.

Three hundred Japanese troops joined in rescue efforts on Okushiri, which was entirely blacked out after the quake, NHK said.

Tidal waves wrecked about 60 small fishing boats along South Korea's east coast, more than 600 miles from the quake's epicenter, said South Korea's Central Anti-Disaster Headquarters. Newspaper reports said the waves were about 15 feet tall.

Elsewhere in northern Japan, Kyodo said, two people were killed in landslides, a woman was killed by a tidal wave and a town official was killed when his car overturned in an aftershock.

In villages on the west coast of Hokkaido, 12 people were missing in tidal waves that swept away 30 houses, NHK said. In another town, 10 people were injured by collapsing houses, it overhead assessment fee on University Housing for such administrative services as budgeting and bookkeeping to $300,000. This would be a $6 monthly increase for housing residents.

"Now the University, because of Measure 5, is in a shortfall, it is changing the mandate of housing — especially family housing — so it can generate revenue for the University for Measure 5," Miller said.

University Budget Director Trent Spradling said that budget problems are behind the large overhead fee increase, but he said it was justified because housing has not fully paid for services it receives from the University.

"It's fairly clear that the overhead assessments are precipitating from shrinking budgets, with the understanding that costs have not been fully allocated out in the past," Spradling said.

Spradling said the $300,000 figure was only an estimate, and the budget office would not have hard numbers until next year.

ASUO University Affairs Coordinator Thomas Huckaba read a statement to the crowd saying that the ASUO opposes the $60,000 overhead assessment fee and supports a more "progressive" solution.

"Increasing rents on the poorest families is the most regressive policy option," Huckaba said.

However, the ASUO has not said whether it opposes the other rent increases, and it has been silent on the remaining $240,000 assessment charge to the dorms.

One protester said family housing is being singled out.

"They know that the students in family housing have the least defenses against this. Attack the weak, bow to the strong," Michelle Parks said.
