MONTANA

bounds, he would lower his shoulder and take the defender head on, causing a few cringes from his coach.

"You don't want to see your quarterback take a lot of big hits," Read said, "but then again, he's a great athlete, and you've got to let him do what he can do."

Surprisingly, Dickenson didn't even start against Oregon, but after it became obvious starter Bert Wilberger could not run the offense, Read went with his largely untested sophomore.

With his team trailing 28-3 with five minutes left in the first half, Dickenson started to work his magic.

- Late in the first half, Dickenson broke free of a sure sack and found Shalon Baker in the endzone to make the score 28-9.

- On a third and 16, Dickenson somehow managed to avoid Oregon's rush and broke six tackles for a 23-yard gain down to the Duck 14-yard line. A few plays later, Dickenson hit Matt Wells who put a nifty move on Oregon safety Dante Lewis and walked into the endzone. The Autzen crowd began to boo as the Grizzlies trailed 28-16.

- Midway through the fourth quarter, Dickenson again dodged a huge Oregon rush and scrambled 27 yards to the Duck four-yard line. On the ensuing play, Dickenson dived into the endzone, cutting the lead to 35-23.

- With two minutes left in the game, Dickenson, faced with a fourth and 10, picked up the Oregon blitz and threw a quick pass to Bill Cockhill, who rambled 35 yards to the Duck four-yard line. A few plays later, Dickenson hit Mike Erhardt for a seven-yard touchdown, pulling the Grizzlies the closer at 35-30 with less than two minutes remaining.

When Montana barely missed recovering the onside kick in the closing seconds, a collective sigh of relief echoed through Autzen Stadium. The Ducks and their fans had seen more than enough magic for one day.

After the game, Read downplayed the importance of taking a Pacific-10 Conference team down to the wire.

"You can't gain momentum from a loss," he said. "But I'm sure we'll get something out of it."
