

Pac-10 'Playboy' issue now out

Playboy magazine released its "Girls of the Pac-10" issue earlier this month, featuring two University students.

Amy Summers, a marine biology major, and Laura Christi, a dance major, were chosen to appear in the issue. Playboy photographers interviewed University students during spring term for the 10-page pictorial.

Playboy photographers David Chan, David Mecey and Arny Freytag visited Pac-10 colleges from March through May.

Summers and Christi will be at Alder Street Market, 798 E. 11th Ave., today from 5 to 7 p.m., autographing copies of the magazine and meeting the public.

The University was one of three of the 10 Pacific-10 Conference schools who had only two students appear in the issue.

Six Arizona State and six California-Berkeley students were photographed for the issue, the most of any Pac-10 school.

In all, 31 women were photographed for the pictorial.

Playboy has been featuring college conference pictorials in a fall issue since 1977. The Pac-10 was last featured in September and October of 1978 and in October 1985.

To have been eligible for the pictorial, women had to be 18 years old and registered as a full-time or part-time student.
