PAC-10 WEEKLY PICKS
 All Emerald point spreads are from The Latest Line. If the number to the right of the visiting team is negative, it tells the number of points it is expected to win by, and if it is positive, it is the number of points it is expected to lose by. This number is thus added or subtracted to the final score to determine who picked the game correctly.

Volleyball back home to play UW and WSU

By Scott Simonson
 Oregon Daily Emerald

They're healthier, they're back at home and they've had a good week of practice. Oregon volleyball head coach Gerry Gregory hopes all this means his team is about to break its six-match losing streak.

The Ducks, 0-5 in the Pacific-10 Conference and 3-10 overall, play a pair of home matches this weekend. Oregon faces Washington at 7:05 Friday night and Washington State on Saturday night. The starting time of the Washington State match has been changed to 7:35 due to the 3:30 p.m. start for the Duck football game.

Washington, 1-4 in the Pac-10, was ranked nationally before being beset by injuries. Washington State, 3-2 in conference play, is currently ranked 17th in the nation.

"The important thing is that we know we can compete with both Washington and Washington State," Gregory said. "We go into every match thinking that we're going to win."

After a disappointing road trip in Arizona last weekend, Gregory was concerned with getting his starting lineup healthy in order to give them time to practice together. Gregory said that quick hitter Angee Henderson's conditioning and skills are returning to form after she was injured, and that the starters have practiced together this week.

"Our week of practice went well," Gregory said. "I think we are a better team now than we were a week ago, and I hope we're ready to compete."

"Our middle attack is really coming around," he said. "Karissa Meith (quick hitter) has been a real force in the last few games."

Gregory said the Ducks have improved their passing in recent matches, especially swing hitter Amy McNeel.

"Against Arizona State, she exceeded the goals we had set for her," he said. "This week in practice, she has continued to pass well and improve her defense."

A young team with a new offense, the Ducks are concerned with building for the future, Gregory said. However, it hasn't been easy for him to look to the future while the team's lone senior, swing hitter Nicolle Hedberg, has missed the last eight matches with a fractured left ankle.
