WSU linebacker looks for the kill

By Steve Mims

Oregon Daily Emerald

A quick glance through Anthony McClanahan's file in the Washington State media guide shows the normal things: height (6-foot-2), weight (222 lbs.), hometown (Bakersfield, Calif.), appeared on The People's Court.

What?

That's right, WSU all-American linebacker Anthony McClanahan was a key figure in "The Case of the Party Pooper Prom Dress" back in 1989. It seems McClanahan got involved in a mix-up during his junior year in high school when he told a female classmate that he might go to the prom with her.

McClanahan's prospective date ended up buying a prom dress and when he told her that he wasn't going to make it to the dance, she responded by filing a $1,500 lawsuit against him to pay for the dress.

"The girl and her aunt sued me and my mom about five times," McClanahan said. "She just never showed up to court. Finally, the television people called me and I was on with (judge) Wapner."

When the plaintiff finally did show up, Wapner ruled in favor of McClanahan. The only bad side for Anthony was that his $59 countersuit for embarrassment and other feelings was denied as well.

"I was embarrassed," McClanahan said. "That is why I coun-

Washington State linebacker Anthony McClanahan will keep his Saturday date with Oregon.

Pick These Sweats Once And You May Never Pick Them Again

That's because Russell's NuBlend poly-cotton sweats are virtually pill-free. So they'll look better longer, and you won't have to keep picking ugly fuzz balls off your sweats.

Russell Athletic NuBlend sweats are made to be as long lasting as the uniforms that they make for professional athletes. So choose Russell Athletic's NuBlend sweats, and leave the picking to somebody else.
