the defense that showed up and did the best job had the most chance of winning." Oregon head coach Rich Brooks said. "Stanford's defense, particularly early on, took it to our offense."

Meanwhile, Stanford's offense woke up first and the Cardinal took a 17-3 halftime lead after scoring on its final three possessions of the first half.

Stanford extended its lead to 38-16 in the third quarter before Oregon's offense finally came alive. The Ducks scored as many touchdowns and field goals as Stanford, but they missed one extra point and failed on three two-point conversion attempts.

Oregon got within 38-22 when O'Neil found wide receiver Cristin McLemore with 8:33 left in the game. The Ducks stopped Stanford on its next possession and got a big punt return by Derrick Deadwiler to give them the ball on the Stanford 25-yard line. The Ducks scored when O'Neil lobbed a pass to Deadwiler on fourth down from the three-yard line, but another missed conversion made the score 38-28.

Stanford went looking for more points, but it backfired when Oregon defensive end Romeo Bandison blocked a field goal, giving Oregon the ball at its own 38-yard line. Just over a minute later, O'Neil found McLemore for his third touchdown of the game to get Oregon to within 38-34, but Stanford recovered Oregon's onside kick and ran out the clock.

The loss overshadowed a great day for McLemore, who caught 11 passes, tying a school record, and compiling 230 yards receiving, four yards short of the school record set earlier this year by Deadwiler.

In addition, McLemore's three touchdowns brought his season total to 10, tying another Oregon record.
