CORRECTION

The first paragraph of the story on the Amazon housing project announcement by the University administration Wednesday incorrectly stated that the University announced "renewed effort to complete plans to demolish and rebuild" the Amazon facility. That paragraph was incorrect. The paragraph should have read:

"University officials announced renewed efforts to reconsider the future of the Amazon housing complex at a news conference Wednesday."

The announcement did not specify that demolition of the complex is still considered the stated goal.

The Emerald regrets any confusion this may have caused.
