Teams play volleyball, raise money

By J. Maddux
For The Oregon Daily Emerald

Ten teams from the University and nine from Oregon State took to the courts to bump, set and spike their way through the weekend at the 4th Annual Interfraternity Volleyball Challenge. The games were hosted by Gamma Phi Beta sorority Saturday and Sunday in Gerlinger Hall.

Approximately $500 was raised from the event and donated by Gamma Phi to the Eugene chapter of Children's Miracle Network.

Lambda Chi Alpha from OSU won the grand prize of the tournament, a victory dinner donated by Carl's Jr., and OSU's Chi Psi took second. Both of the teams received a plaque commemorating their achievement.

The third place team, Delta Upsilon from OSU, received a gift certificate from Pegasus Pizza.

"This was the first time that OSU totally dominated the tournament," said Gamma Phi Philanthropy Chair Angela Patterson. "The rivalry was really interesting."

"It wasn't like Civil War where one school just wants to beat the other. When the two Delta Upsilon teams were pitted against each other, it was more like brothers playing brothers," she said.

Cooper Clark, a member of the University Sigma Nu team agreed. "It was fun to compete with the teams from OSU," he said. "No one was into rivalry. We all just wanted to play some good volleyball."

The event, which is one of the few that includes participants from both the University and OSU, is meant to bring the two schools together while raising money for charity, said Patterson.
