

A Booksigning with David Clarke Burks

Wednesday, November 9th
12:30-1:30 Upstairs

Local author David Clarke Burks will be in our store signing copies of the newly released book, Place of the Wild, a Wildlands Anthology. "Where and what is the place of the wild? Can human culture-civilization-and the wildlands coexist?" Writer and environmental lecturer David Clarke Burks posed those two questions to thirty of America's most prominent wilderness advocates. The result is a compelling collection of new writings on the future of wildlands and wilderness. Paperback 16.95

"Given the current controversies over the protection of wildlands, Place of the Wild is a state of the art and important book on the subject of wilderness protection and biodiversity."—George Sessions, editor of Deep Ecology for the 21st Century

will give a lecture sponsored by the Dept. of Environmental Studies on:
"Passing Down the Bones: Elements of Conservation"
