Interested in Health Education?

Become a Peer Health Educator and organize presentations on health issues, such as HIV/AIDS and nutrition, in a small group of motivated peers. By counseling other students on fitness, weight management, and other health topics, you can make a difference. You'll improve your public speaking techniques when you organize presentations and workshops. Finally, when you write articles for the newsletter Well Now, you will provide health information for the campus community.

This class offers six upper division credits through EDPM.

Grapplers prepare for NCAA meet

Trevor Kearney

Oregon Daily Emerald

Despite a sub-par 4-8-1 overall record, the Oregon wrestling team has combined a little bit of experience with a lot of youth and improvement to put themselves in an impressive post-season situation.

Behind strong individual performances at the Pacific 10 Conference Championships Feb. 25, the Ducks qualified six wrestlers for the March 16 NCAA tournament, one more than they qualified in each of the last three seasons.

Both 142-pound senior Cory Sonnen and 118-pound junior Kevin Roberts provided the experience as they each qualified to return for their third tournament appearance. Meanwhile, redshirt freshman Jeremy Ensrud (126), sophomore Scott Norton (150) and junior transfers Blake Tompkins (134) and Nathan Sullivan (heavyweight) all earned their first chance to compete at the national level.

"We knew going [into the Pac-10 tournament] we were capable of taking six guys, and we did," said assistant coach Chuck Kearney.

"I'm very pleased to take six guys because there aren't very many teams that are capable of taking six guys," head coach Ron Finley said.

According to Kearney, individual improvement throughout the season was one of the most important factors in the Ducks performance at the conference meet.

"As a coaching staff, we saw guys making improvements," Kearney said. "We knew that we were doing the right things."

And those improvements culminated with Norton, whose 25-5 record led to his 150-pound Pac-10 title, the team's only conference title this year.

Ducks at 70-70 with 5:03 to play. The Trojans went ahead 72-70 a minute later on a finger-roll by Lorenzo Orr, who fouled out with 2:31 left and 12 points.

The Ducks went ahead for good on a layup by Zach Sellers with 1:55 remaining and hit eight of nine free throws in the last three minutes. USC, meanwhile, missed two of seven from the line.

With 10 seconds to play, USC's Burt Harris made the first two of three free throws and intentionally missed the third. Claude Green rebounded the miss deep in the left corner and made a three-pointer over Damon Runyon to cut the deficit to 79-77. But it was all for naught as Wilkins calmly nailed his final two free throws with seven seconds remaining to ice the win for Oregon.

Jaha Wilson chipped in with 13 points and 10 rebounds for the Trojans who have not won since defeating Washington on Jan. 14.

Orlando Williams added 17 and Runyon provided a big spark off the bench with five rebounds and 12 points on six of six shooting. Jordy Lyden continued his outstanding play of late with a team-high eight rebounds to go along with six points.

The Ducks used a 10-0 run early in the second half to build a 51-42 lead with 16:10 left. Boseman answered with three consecutive three-pointers to keep USC in the contest.

The Trojans, who led by as many as five in the first half, held a 40-37 advantage at the break.

Bruins (10-16, 5-12) will visit The Pit Saturday.

The Bruins, losers of eight of their last 11 contests, own an 11-9 all-time series edge over the Ducks. However, Oregon has rebounded to claim victories in the last four confrontations between the two teams.

The Bruins major threats come from double-digit scorers center Kisa Hughes and guard Nickey Hilbert. Hughes is also the conference's leading rebounder with a 10.6 average and ranks second in field goal percentage shooting an outstanding 56.8 percent from the field.

"I think UCLA is just a given," Runge said, "we've got to win that game."

If the Ducks pick up the victory they need in "Mission Don't Lose," the Ducks figure to have locked a berth for a second-consecutive trip to the NCAA tournament.

Duck Notes

Senior Karen Healea who had to be redshirted after the Ducks second game of the season may be making her final Mac Court appearance in uniform Saturday afternoon. According to Runge, Healea's doctor has said that it is most likely she will be unable to ever play basketball again after a scheduled summer surgery on her injured hip...It was announced after Oregon's Thursday night victory that guard Sally Crowe will not be returning to the Ducks' program because it is not in her best interest.
