

Science fiction author presents workshop

Noelle Greenley
For the Oregon Daily Emerald

Author Phyllis Radford Karr will present an evening workshop on Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the McNutt Room, at 777 Pearl St.

The topic for the writing workshop is "How to Create Alternate Worlds in Fantasy and Science Fiction." Karr will explore writing techniques in fantasy and romance literature.

As a fantasy fiction writer, Karr publishes under her pen name, Irene Radford. She combines a love for medieval history and her fascination with the paranormal in her writing. She will also discuss the process of creating parallel worlds in fantasy and fiction.

Karr's presentation is a part of a series of monthly educational workshops geared to all levels of writing and everyone is encouraged to attend.

The workshop is sponsored by the Heart of Oregon Chapter Romance Writers of America.

Karr's first book, The Glass Dragon, was a December 1994 release from DAW, the premier publisher of science fiction and fantasy in today's market. The Perfect Princess (November 1995) and The Loneliest Magician (1996) will complete her trilogy.

The newest edition of Science Fiction Writers Marketplace and Source Book lists Karr as a new writer to watch. The December 1994 issue of Romantic Times calls her a mesmerizing storyteller.

There is no charge for attending Tuesday night's workshop; however, reservations are required.

Contact Suzan Greenlee at 345-0540, after 10 a.m., to reserve space.
