because losing sucks," Wilcox said of the team's goals, adding that the new coaching staff could be a step in that direction. "Coach Borges, coach [Chris] Peterson and coach [Tom] Osborne put in a lot of stuff that's going to help us and make the game exciting for the fans."

"I think it is a good position that could be a strong one if we keep everyone healthy," Borges said of the receivers. "If we can use that game type experience to our advantage, then I think there is no question that that is an exciting proposition."

Unfortunately for Ducks, however, the receivers have not been at full strength this spring, with Johnson away from football drills at track practice and McLemore suffering through an ankle injury.

"Right now we are not very deep at all because Patrick Johnson is in track and Cristin McLemore has been hurt," Borges said, adding that at full strength the group promises to produce. "In terms of all the guys when they are able and ready, we've got some good guys out there."

While the team's receivers are trying to get healthy, the Duck's are searching for a fullback to complete their running game.

While Ricky Whittle will hold down the tailback position, junior-to-be Pulou Malepeai and sophomore A.J. Jelks head the list of candidates for the fullback position.

"That's the position that is the most concerning in the backfield right now," running backs coach Gary Campbell said. "We moved Jelks over from inside linebacker with hopes that he will turn out to be like the guys we've had out there in the past."

Besides the hole at the fullback position, the Ducks running game looks to be a strong complement to their passing game. Led by Whittle, who is entering his senior season, the unit also includes Marcel Stewart, a junior who also provides the team with fullback depth, as well as redshirt freshman tailback Kevin Parker.

"I think we have got some capable people," Borges said. "I hope that we can maintain some respect."

Whittle agrees, adding that respect is the key to an overall successful offense.

"I want respect when I turn the corner. We have to get that respect and then keep them honest to our passing game and play action," Whittle said.
