What is your most memorable moment at the University?

My best memories have to do with being a part of Sigma Kappa. Initially going through the Rush process, I thought that it was going to be something I really wasn't going to like. Even after going through the whole pledging thing I thought, 'naa, this ain't for me.' But somehow I stuck with it, and I've been able to make wonderful friends, wonderful connections. It summarizes my college experience.

— Lisa Lee

I will not miss all the transients, but I will miss all the friends I've made. It was the best lazy four years out of my life.

— Jason Warren

The Rose Bowl was the most insane time of my college career because we left the day after Christmas, and it was like nine days on the road. We stopped in Santa Cruz for surfing. We cruised down to stay with friends in Pasadena and celebrated New Years. But basically, it was like Shasta on wheels.

— Fred Branin

What's the most important piece of advice you want to leave for future students?

Catch as much air as you can, drink to your heart's content because it's all going to end. Once you graduate and look back on college one thing you can never say is that you partied too much or studied too little.

— Kevin Keranen

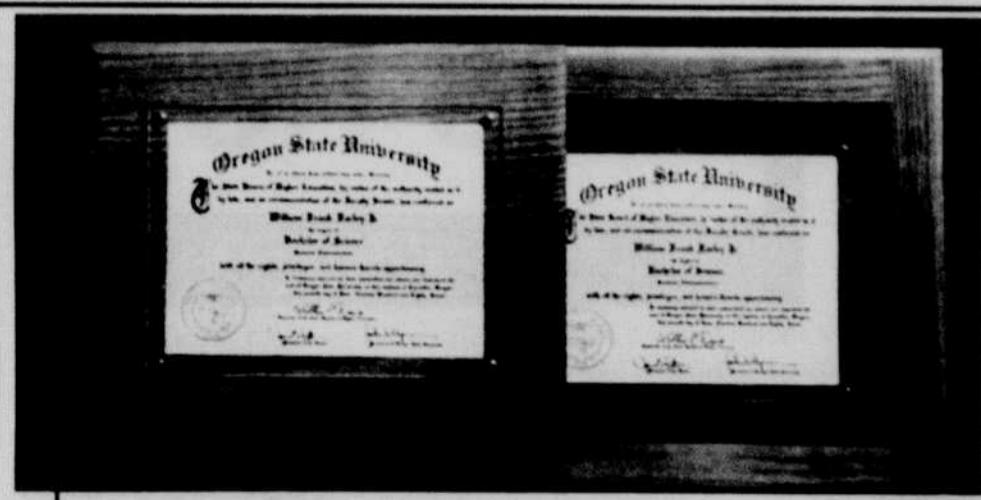

Saying goodbye to everyone you met through the years is the hardest part about leaving the University. Don't forget this: It's the friends you make through the years that make the college experience.

— Tauni Swenson

My parting words of advice to anybody who enjoys their beer: Do not get in your car and mess around with the Eugene police department driving these streets. They will nail you.

— Brad Corbett
