

Oregon Daily Emerald

TUESDAY, JUNE 20, 1995

EUGENE, OREGON

VOLUME 97, ISSUE 1

Juvenile pulls gun in campus robbery

Crime: No University students were involved in the Friday incident

Sherry Rainey
Oregon Daily Emerald

Three juveniles were arrested last Friday night in connection with an armed robbery that occurred in front of Gilbert Hall on the University campus.

The victims, a 16-year-old male from Portland and a 14-year-old male from Eugene, met one of the suspects in the robbery on East 13th Avenue in a possible attempt to buy marijuana, according to a report from the Eugene Department of Public Safety.

About 10 minutes later, the pair was approached by one of the suspects as they were walking through the campus north of Gilbert Hall.

According to the police report, a 15-year-old suspect pulled out a .32-caliber revolver and said, "I'm from the Northwest 'Hood and this is what you get for messing with the Northwest 'Hood." Then the suspect pointed the gun at the Eugene boy's head and said, "Gimme your money."

The suspect took $22 in cash and a broken cigarette lighter. The suspect also demanded money from the 16-year-old, but he didn't have any.

The victims reported the incident to an Oregon Public Safety officer at the corner of 13th Avenue and Kincaid

Turn to ROBBERY, Page 3A

If it's still raining...

Video games are available in the EMU's basement Recreation Center during the center's limited summer hours: noon to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday.

LES ZACZEK/Emerald

Frohnmayer is president, permanently

Administration: State board decides not to seek other candidates

Sean M. Smith
Oregon Daily Emerald

The State Board of Higher Education announced the permanent appointment of Dave Frohnmayer as University president June 16, making him the 15th president in the University's 119-year history.

The board approved Frohnmayer's position following the recommendation of OSSHE Chancellor Joe Cox, who met with University students, faculty, alumni and community members before addressing the board.

"There is extremely high confidence in him as a human being and a very reassuring level of comfort with his management style, his relations with employees of all types, and the openness, frankness and candor with which he approaches the presidency," Cox said in a news release Friday.

The board's decision ended speculation about a nationwide search for a permanent replacement for Myles Brand, who vacated the position last year to accept the presidency at Indiana University. Frohnmayer, who had been the dean of the University School of Law since 1992, was appointed interim president on May 11, 1994.

University Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs John Moseley applauded the decision.

"[Frohnmayer] is really committed to this University and this state," Moseley said. "He has received very broad support, and well-deserved support, from our external constituents, and his ability to represent this University and his leadership have been outstanding."

Ed Bergeron, president of the University Alumni Association, agreed.

"I've known four University presidents, and

FROHNMAYER

Turn to PRESIDENT, Page 5A

Runge signs four-year contract

Sports: The women's basketball coach gets a base salary of $80,000

Mark McTyre
Oregon Daily Emerald

The wait is over.

Oregon women's basketball head coach Jody Runge signed a new deal with the University eight days ago, that insures that the 1993-94 Pac-10 coach of the year will remain at Oregon for at least another four years.

The contract, which was agreed to in principle in April, allows for an annual base salary of $80,000 and includes additional incentive clauses that could raise her pay by another $10,000.

The deal nearly doubles the salary for Runge, who has an overall record of 38-19 during her first two seasons. Last year, Runge — who was hired by Oregon after eight seasons as an assistant coach at Florida, Alabama-Birmingham, Colorado State and Missouri — signed a contract worth $48,000 "under protest."

"It [the new contract] helps us market our program through recruiting because it shows a commitment by the University," Runge said. "I really love Oregon and I'm glad I have the opportunity to stay."

Issues under protest were parts of the contract that Runge and her attorney felt violated Title IX of the Education Amendments Act of 1972, the federal legislation that prohibits sexual discrimination at institutions receiving federal funds.

Runge's attorney, Alan Manheim of Atlanta, had threatened to file a multi-million-dollar lawsuit against the University.

On the same day that Runge signed her contract, she announced the hiring of a new assistant coach to her staff.

Fred Litzenger, who has accumulated 13 years as a men's basketball assistant coach at the NCAA Division I level in addition to possessing 12 years of head coaching experience, will replace Joe Jackson, who held the position for the past two seasons. He'll join assistant coach Stephanie Osborn and graduate assistant Kelly Kobe on Runge's staff.

The successful 48-year-old has been associated with collegiate programs that have won five conference championships, advanced to the NCAA tournament 10 times and made three National Invitation Tournament appearances. He

RUNGE

Turn to COACH, Page 3A

GOOD MORNING

► PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Kirsten Frohnmayer received her degree in human biology at Stanford University just one week after arriving home from a six-month battle against leukemia and a stroke.

On Sunday, Kirsten wore a floppy straw hat beneath her mortarboard, keeping out the sun she must avoid during her recovery. She wore a garland of flowers over her black robe.

Her proud parents watched as she graduated along with the other 1,668 members of Stanford's centennial class of 1995.

"This is the best Father's Day present anybody could ever have," said Dave Frohnmayer.

"All these parents here are really proud," said her mother, Lynn Frohnmayer. "For us, there is something else, too — wonder, joy and amazement."

► LOS ANGELES (AP) — Batman Forever delivered at the box office in its opening weekend after a marketing campaign that budgeted a dollar to promote the movie for every dollar spent making it.

But the next few weeks may be the true test for the Caped Crusader's third adventure on the big screen, and for the $60 million Warner Bros. plans to spend turning it into the "must-see" movie of the summer.

"The way pictures open these days, they burn through the audience interest quickly," Hal Vogel, an industry analyst at Cowen & Co., said Monday. "It's very deceptive: You don't know how strong strong is until you get to the second weekend."

Batman Forever sold about $52.8 million in tickets over the weekend, breaking the 1993 Jurassic Park record of $50.2 million for a debut, Warner Bros. said.

Batman Forever debuted in a record 4,300 North American movie theaters and was accompanied by Warner Bros.' most diverse marketing effort yet, the studio said.