Teen-ager sentenced for shooting mother to death with arrows

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A teen-ager convicted of killing his mother by shooting her in the head with arrows was sentenced Monday to 15 years to life in prison.

Brian Nemeth, 16, was convicted Saturday of murdering Suzanne Nemeth, 40, on Jan. 7, while she slept on a couch in their home in Wintersville, a village just east of Steubenville in eastern Ohio. She died eight days later. Authorities said he shot five arrows into her head and neck.

Nemeth, who was tried as an adult, was acquitted of the more serious charge of aggravated murder. He had admitted killing his mother but said he didn't recall his actions "after I let the string go," referring to the first arrow he shot.

His attorney, Adrian Hershey, said he will appeal the conviction.

Nemeth declined to speak during sentencing by Judge Dominick Olivito but responded briefly after Mrs. Nemeth's mother, Catherine Kaiserling, was allowed to speak from a courtroom podium.

"Brian, why did you have to kill her? Look at me. Why?" she said.

Nemeth did not answer. "You went to school and bragged you was going to kill her," she said.

"No, I didn't," he said.

"Well, you made your bed and you're going to lie in it," she said, then walked away from the podium, sobbing.

Circus animal severs woman's finger

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A circus lion bit off a finger of a woman who scaled three fences and stuck her hand inside the cage to pet the animal.

Lisa Fox, 31, told police she put her hand into the lion's cage at a downtown staging area used by the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey circus.

The index finger on Fox's right hand was severed early Saturday. "According to the police report, it was recovered and taken to the hospital," police officer Mary Horty said.

Fox was treated at Wishard Memorial Hospital, which did not return calls seeking information on her condition Monday.

The touring circus ended a series of weekend performances on Sunday. No representative could be reached for comment.

Fox was not charged in the incident.
