Football: Ducks taste sweet revenge

capable of doing," said defensive coordinator Charlie Waters. "They never quit playing hard and believed that they could make the play. They never could drive the ball on us after that first series."

On the Cougars' next possession, Oregon's senior linebacker Paul Jensen picked off a Chad Davis pass and ran it 35 yards for the touchdown. Freshman kicker Joshua Smith's point after attempt was blocked, making the score 7-6.

The score remained until just before the second quarter, when junior quarterback Tony Graziani found sophomore tight end Blake Spence in the right corner of the end zone and the Ducks took a 13-7 lead and never looked back.

With 10 seconds to go before halftime, Smith culminated a 4-minute, 12-second drive with a 19-yard field goal to put the Ducks ahead 16-7.

Both defenses dominated the third quarter, as neither team really threatened until the final quarter. But in Washington State's first possession of the fourth quarter, the Oregon defense iced the win when sophomore cornerback Kenny Wheaton tipped a Davis pass into the hands of Oregon senior free safety Isaac Walker. Walker ran the ball 82 yards for Oregon's fourth interception touchdown of the season, giving the Ducks a 23-7 lead.

The Ducks' defense came up big just one play later when, on the Cougars first play of the possession, senior cornerback Alex Molden intercepted an errant pass from Davis. This time, however, the Ducks couldn't run it back — and couldn't even muster a touchdown — as Smith had to make good on a 42-yard field goal to give Oregon a 26-7 lead and the win.

Just seconds later, after freshman Matt Brewer's kick off, Oregon's defense did it again as junior cornerback Ronnie Gipson recovered Washington State tight end David Knuff's fumble, but the Ducks couldn't manage another score.

The win is a sweet one for the Ducks, as they improve to a 6-1 overall record and 3-1 in the Pac-10. The win ensured a winning season and gave the Ducks an opportunity to avenge their only conference loss last season.

"That was the first goal, to ensure a winning season," Molden said. "The second goal was we had to get a little revenge. They put a blemish in our record [last year] and we wanted to come back and show them that was a fluke."

The win also gave Oregon's Gang Green defense a chance to step back into the spotlight after the Ducks' offense had been the overshadowing force in the previous two games.

"We wanted to live up to the nickname Gang Green and bring that back to the limelight," said Jordan, who finished with four tackles and two sacks for a loss of 167 yards. "We are a very proud defense and we like to show what we can do. I think we did that today."

"I kind of got a little jealous from the offense scoring a lot of points," Molden said. "That's good, but being a defensive player, you have to have that get-them attitude."

Senior linebacker Jeremy Asher finished the game with eight tackles and three sacks that resulted in a loss of 11 yards for the Cougars. Senior free safety Brian Collins chalked up a team-high 10 tackles with two sacks and a forced fumble, while junior cornerback LaMont Woods had nine tackles and forced one fumble. Wheaton had eight tackles and broke up two passes.

Graziani finished the game with 204 yards on 21 passes, while Davis completed 20 passes for 181 yards for the Cougars. The Cougars double-teamed Oregon senior tailback Ricky Whittle all night long and contained him to just 13 net yards, but junior split end Dameron Ricketts (68 yards receiving), McLemore (54 yards) and Spence (63 yards) all took up the slack.

Washington State finished with five turnovers and 12 penalties, which accounted for 99 negative yards. The Cougars now lead the conference in penalties.

The Ducks lost a few key players to injuries, the most noteworthy of whom was Wheaton, who injured his finger. His status is not known. Jordan (finger), Whittle (ankle) and junior offensive guard Tasi Malepeai (bruised left knee) were all sidelined at some point but are not expected to miss next week's game against Arizona State.
