Rebel Serbs agree to return Croatian land

■ AGREEMENT: Serb-held territory will be returned to Zagreb rule during a one-year transition

ERDUT, Croatia (AP) — Rebel Serbs agreed Sunday to submit the last of their holdings in Croatia to government authority, resolving a dispute that threatened to derail U.S.-led talks in Ohio on peace for the Balkans.

"This is a historic signing," U.S. Ambassador Peter Galbraith said. "For the first time in this conflict an issue has been solved by a signature and not by a bullet."

The agreement, signed in this Serb-held town in eastern Croatia and witnessed by Galbraith and chief U.N. envoy Thorvald Stoltenberg, also averted the imminent threat of more fighting.

Croatian troops in May and August recaptured most Serb-held territory taken in a 1991 war, sending about 180,000 Croatian Serbs fleeing to Bosnia and Serbia.

Croatia threatened to attack the remaining bit of Serb-held territory, known as eastern Slavonia, if rebels refused to accept the plan for its reintegration.

Such an attack on the territory, which borders Serbia could have drawn in the Serb-led Yugoslav army, leading to renewed war and a collapse of Bosnian peace talks at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

In a show of force, the Croatian army had moved crack troops and heavy artillery toward the front line over the past few days. Witnesses also reported seeing a large column of Yugoslav army troops and guns headed toward the Croatian border late Saturday night.

"The agreement provides for a peaceful solution," Stoltenberg said. "I generally hope that this will have a contagious effect for the whole area."

The two negotiators later took the agreement to Zagreb, the Croatian capital, where the government's lead negotiator signed for Croatia.

The Croatian government and rebel Serb leaders had agreed Oct. 3 on basic principles for the return of the territory, but remained at odds over how that would be done.

Serbs wanted a three-year transition period and U.N. monitoring. Croatia insisted on no more than one year and wanted a NATO presence, similar to that which would enforce peace in Bosnia.

The agreement calls for a one-year transitional period that can be extended to two if requested by either side. It asks the U.N. Security Council to create an interim administration for the area and deploy troops to maintain peace, but does not specify the composition of those forces.

The 14-point agreement was finalized in Dayton during talks between Croatian President Franjo Tudjman and Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, negotiating on behalf of rebel Serbs in Croatia and Bosnia, sources said.

Mexican elections test ruling party's popularity

■ VOTING: Elections will measure support for Mexico's Institutional Revolutionary party, which has ruled for 66 years

MORELIA, Mexico (AP) — One state had a fiercely contested three-way fight for governor. Five others chose mayors and state legislators.

But voting Sunday was expected to stand more as a referendum on the waning popularity of the Institutional Revolutionary Party, which has ruled Mexico for 66 years.

Support for the party, known as PRI, has steadily dropped since a severe economic crisis hit Mexico three weeks after President Ernesto Zedillo took office Dec. 1.

Since then, the peso lost more than half its value against the dollar. Inflation soared from 7 percent in 1994 to an estimated 50 to 60 percent this year. More than 1 million jobs have been lost. Sales have declined sharply, and scores of businesses have closed every month.

"This election is a national plebiscite on the politics of the current federal government," Porfirio Muñoz Ledo, chairman of the leftist Democratic Revolutionary Party, warned in a campaign speech.

In the west coast state of Michoacan, there was a close three-way race for governor among candidates from each of the three top parties. The state's 1.9 million voters also were choosing 113 mayors and 30 state legislators.

Elections for state legislators and mayors were also held in Sinaloa, Puebla, Tlaxcala, Oaxaca and Tamaulipas. Those states have a total 6.6 million voters.

In Mexico City, 5.4 million voters were choosing 365 neighborhood council members, new offices created to deal with local problems in the metropolis of 12 million. Candidates for city council were not allowed to belong to any political party.
