Men's B-Ball: Free throws ice victory

■ Continues from Page 15

run, giving the Ducks a 55-46 deficit to overcome.

A traveling call against the Cougars gave the Ducks the ball, and Brown hit a jumper on a pass from junior forward Jamar Curry as the 8,531 fans at McArthur Court started to get into the game.

After Brown missed a deep three-pointer, Antrum threw a pass into the crowd, and the momentum began to shift.

A dunk from junior forward Kyle Milling put the Ducks back on track, and Wilkins' pick of Washington State guard Kareem Jackson's pass led to a score by junior center Rob Ramaker, putting the Ducks within one.

With the score 61-56 in Oregon's favor, Brown missed a free throw and the Cougars capitalized on the miss with a three-pointer from Antrum, cutting the lead to two points.

The Ducks got a free throw from Curry and a layup from Wilkins before Antrum put the Cougars within one point at 64-63 with four straight free throws.

But that was as close as Washington State would get, as the Ducks ran the clock down and forced the Cougars to foul. When they did, Wilkins, who had missed a free throw just a few plays earlier, hit the bottom of the net four straight times and Milling added two free throws to give the Ducks the win.

"At the end we played good enough to win," Green said. "We made a few baskets. Of course Kenya was rock solid except for the one-and-one he missed. I told him I wanted him on the line, he went to the line and he made them."

Wilkins led the Ducks in scoring with 20 points and added five assists, while Milling had 12 points and 10 rebounds and Ramaker had 11 rebounds and nine points.

The Ducks take on Washington on Saturday at 12:05 p.m. at McArthur Court. The Huskies lost to Oregon State Thursday 63-55, giving them a 8-4 overall record and a 1-2 Pac-10 record.
