

Women's b-ball: ASU is a must win

we could have gotten anything going on the offensive end, it would have lifted our defense."

The loss was particularly devastating for Oregon's hopes of getting a bid to the NCAA Tournament. Oregon dropped a game and a half behind Arizona and a full game behind Washington State in the Pac-10 standings.

"Now it's a matter of the fact that we have four games left that are all must wins," said Arianne Boyer, who led the Ducks with 16 points. "To ensure going to the tournament, we have to win the rest of our games and win them decisively to have any shot at going to the tournament."

The Ducks will have a day to ponder their missed opportunities against Arizona before taking the floor to play host to Arizona State Saturday afternoon. Ore-gon's schedule is kind to the Ducks, considering that the Sun Devils will come to McArthur Court with the worst record (2-10) in the Pac-10.

Molly Tuter paces Arizona State with 14.6 points per game and Emma Witkowski chips in 13.1 for the 6-15 Sun Devils.

"It will not be a night off for us against Arizona State," Runge said. "We're at the point where we have to win every game to get a bid to the Tournament."

Oregon travels to Las Vegas for tourney

The Oregon softball team is in Las Vegas today for the start of the weekend-long UNLV Spring Fling softball tournament.

The Ducks (3-3) opened the season with a fourth place finish in last weekend's Coca-Cola Classic tournament. Two of the losses came after the Ducks led going into the final inning of play.

Oregon will open the tournament today against Utah State, who they beat 5-3 in the final game of last weekend's tournament. They will then take on Hawaii in the afternoon. Oregon will begin bracket play Saturday afternoon after a morning match against Akron.

The Ducks came out of the gate last weekend on an offensive tear. Led by shortstop Kathy Stahl's .591 batting average, two home runs and nine RBI; center fielder Lisa Pre-

Ski team finishes week-long meet

Oregon's alpine skiing team will finish up the Western Region Collegiate Ski Championships today. The entire women's team qualified for the meet, which began on Tuesday, along with one men's team member. Sarah Momsen, Allison Bigsby, Jennifer Jensen and Jessica Burke all qualified for the women's team while Alan Siler was the lone men's qualifier. The meet will take place in McCall, Idaho at Brundage Mountain.

The regional meet is the last step before the national meet at Mount Snow in Vermont from March 6-9.

Oregon's club sailing team will be in action this weekend when it heads to Seattle for a two day regatta. The Ducks will take eight team members and three boats to compete in at least 10 races. They will be competing against Washington, Western Washington, Seattle University, and Lewis and Clark.

In Seattle the Washington Huskies were able to sweep a two game series from Oregon's club sport hockey team, 6-3 and 9-1. The two losses moved the Ducks to 7-14-1 on the season with two games remaining.

The Ducks are headed to Spokane for the weekend to play Idaho. Spokane is the nearest ice rink to Idaho.
