NEWS BRIEFING

A LOOK AT THIS MORNING'S HEADLINES

Cooley admits lying for loan, defends other allegations

NORTHWEST

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — U.S. Rep. Wes Cooley, R-Ore., has publicly admitted for the first time that he signed loan documents in 1985 falsely stating he was married and has offered an apology to voters.

"Sometimes we do things in life we're not very proud of and we rationalize to ourselves, not knowing what harm could come to others ... I'm sorry," said Cooley, at the Oregon Federation of Republican Women on Saturday.

Cooley is facing allegations that he lied about his second marriage, his educational background and his military record.

Cooley said in an interview Saturday that he lied about being married in 1985 because he was afraid he and Rosemary Herron, whom he married in 1993, would not get the loan for the couple's ranch near Bend.

"We took it out under the name 'Wester Cooley and Rosemary Herron,'" Cooley said.

"They typed in 'husband and wife,' he said. "When we saw that ... we said, 'Well, we won't say anything about it because maybe we won't get the loan if we do. We'll just let it go.'"

Knowingly signing loan documents that contain incorrect information is illegal, but rarely is prosecuted as long as loan payments are being made.

Cooley also said his wife "never took a nickel" from the Department of Veterans Affairs after their 1993 marriage.

Questions have been raised about whether Cooley's wife received VA benefits as a widow from a previous marriage when she and Cooley were presenting themselves as husband and wife.

Survey finds extent of computer crime hard to determine

NATIONAL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new survey shows the difficulty of measuring the extent of computer break-ins, apparently because companies are reluctant to disclose whether they have been victimized.

The survey being released Monday was sent to members of the Computer Security Institution, a San Francisco-based association of information security professionals. Only 428 responses to the 4,971 questionnaires sent out were received.

The low response rate means results are not statistically meaningful, said Ann Kalinowski, a statistician with Failure Analysis Associated in Menlo Park, California.

More than a third of those who did answer said their system had experienced some form of intrusion or unauthorized use within the last 12 months, and half the attacks were inside jobs.

However, those figures would not reflect intrusions that are not detected or not reported — or the possibility that those who did not respond to the survey have higher or lower rates of computer break-ins.

Few respondents said they would report to law enforcement agencies if they thought they had been victimized — most cited fear of negative publicity.

"If that's accurate, it causes considerable concern," FBI spokesman George Grotz said. That tells us we've got to do a better job of educating the public as to our responsibilities. It's a wake up call."

The FBI's International Computer Crime Squad's San Francisco office helped write the survey, which Grotz defended as a "first step," despite its imprecision.

Rebels kidnap 11 pro-Moscow police, shoot down warplane

GROZNY, Russia (AP) — Chechen rebels shot down a Russian warplane Sunday, killing its two pilots and kidnapped 11 police officers of the Moscow-backed Chechen government.

Also Sunday, the leader of the rebels, ejected a Russian offer for peace talks, but a standoff between rebels in Shali and Russian troops besieging the town for nearly two weeks was reportedly settled with Chechens handing over their weapons.

The Russian jet fighter was brought down Sunday morning during a reconnaissance mission near the eastern village of Mairt-up. Defense Ministry officials told The Associated Press. Both pilots were reported as killed.

According to Russian news reports, it was the fifth Russian warplane shot down in Chechnya since the war began in December 1994.

The Russian military command also reported nearly 30 shooting attacks on its forces in Grozny, the ruined Chechen capital, and elsewhere in Chechnya since late Saturday.

"A real cannonade that could be compared to the first days of the armed conflict in Grozny was heard in the Chechen capital throughout the night," the ITAR-Tass news agency reported.

Officials with Chechnya's pro-Moscow Interior Ministry reported that 11 police officers were kidnapped Friday in Petropavlovskaya, nine miles northeast of Grozny. They were seized and disarmed by about 40 rebels.

Meanwhile, the Chechen rebels' new leader, Zelimkhan Yandarbiyev, rejected President Boris Yeltsin's proposal for peace talks involving representatives of the Russian government, its loyalists in Grozny and the rebels.
