NOMINATION DEADLINE: APRIL 4, 1997

Faculty Awards For Distinguished Teaching

Now is the time to make nominations for awards which will be presented at Spring Commencement to University of Oregon faculty members for distinguished teaching. Graduate teaching fellows, who have their own competition, are ineligible for these awards. Each of these awards will be accompanied by a monetary prize. Students, faculty, staff and alumni can submit nominations. If you wish to make a nomination, you should send it to the following address using the form below or another sheet of paper:

Lorraine G. Davis, Vice Provost for Academic Affairs
207 Johnson Hall, University of Oregon

Please send your nominations no later than April 4, 1997

Eligibility for Awards

Ersted Award for Distinguished Teaching

The late Mr. A. J. Ersted established the Ersted Award for Distinguished Teaching so the University of Oregon could annually honor faculty members "who have taught comparatively short periods and have demonstrated exceptional abilities to induce students to reason and not merely memorize." The Ersted Award can go only to faculty who are early in their teaching careers. This teaching may occur at the undergraduate or graduate level.

Thomas F. Herman Faculty Achievement Award for Distinguished Teaching

This award continues the tradition begun by the Burlington Northern Foundation by honoring senior faculty members who have achieved outstanding records as teachers. The Thomas F. Herman Award can go only to faculty members who have held academic rank at the University of Oregon for at least seven years, and who have demonstrated excellence in teaching at the undergraduate or graduate level.

Students visit the Grand Canyon

The University Office of International Education and Exchange sponsored a trip to the Grand Canyon during spring break. Fourteen students traveled through Utah and Arizona to see the sights.

"It was an awesome experience," International Students office manager Karen Susilo said. "The trip was worth it. We sang songs and told stories, and we got to see a lot of nature and go hiking."

The group — which consisted of students from Mexico, Japan, Indonesia, Taiwan, Nepal, Korea, Hong Kong and the United States — went camping and saw a variety of canyons and Zion National Park.

"It was freezing [while camping], but it was still a lot of fun," Susilo said. "This was the first time for a lot of us to see the canyons and to just get out into nature."

Susilo said the trip was especially enjoyable because the people were from various countries. "We learned a lot from each other," she said.

This trip is part of a series of ongoing trips and conferences the OIEE and the International Students Association peer assistants are sponsoring this year. For more information on upcoming events, contact the peer assistants at 346-4387.

Presentation looks at Borneo's culture

The culture of people living on the island of Borneo is closely linked to the island's tropical rain forest. How development of the rain forest affects the culture is the topic for a slide show and presentation today.

The presentation is sponsored by the University's Survival Center and features artists and photojournalists who have traveled to the island.

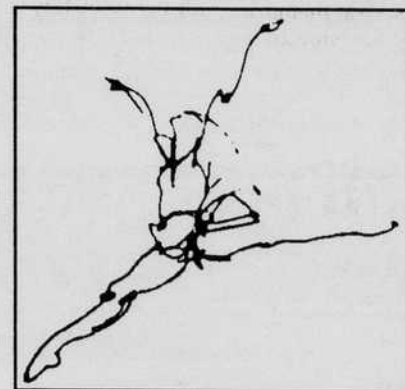

Sarifa Rohaya, who grew up on the island, will discuss the struggle of the native people to continue living as they always have in a land that is continually changing. The tropical rain forests of Borneo are the oldest in the world, said Michael Turaski, co-coordinator for the Survival Center.

The hour-and-a-half presentation will not only feature slide shows but music and stories also, Turaski said.

"Students can learn about the diversity of cultures and the link to the biological world that is so vital," he said. "Whether it is Borneo or the Willamette National Forests, people need to see the connections between people and the environment and get involved."

The presentation is free and open to the public. It will happen today at 7 p.m. in 180 Prince Lucien Campbell Hall.
